Willkie Offers 6-Point Program To Help Farmer

Republicans Flock
To Madison to Hear
Candidate Tonight

Aboard Willkie Train Enroute to Madison—(P)—Wendell L. Willkie traveled today across Iowa's broad corn fields from Omaha, where he recommended a farm program calling for expanded markets and improvement of present federal agricultural projects.

The Republican presidential nominee also promised that if elected, he would invite representatives of farm, factory, labor and consumer to the White House to "tackle the job, at long last, of ending economic stagnation and of preventing a common disaster."

In his first general discussion of farm problems, Willkie told a cheering Omaha audience last night:

"Let us take over—and improve if possible—these elements of the present (federal) program which are helping the farmer in his battle against the contracting economy that the New Deal has brought about."

"But let us not pretend that that program is our solution. We must go to the roots of our trouble. By the application of the simple laws of economics we must expand the domestic market and the foreign market."

Six Suggestions
He offered these suggestions designed to accomplish that end:

1. Develop new industries to increase both farm and national income.

2. Expand federal studies on marketing and distribution of farm products.

3. Reduce the cost of transporting farm products to market, including federal aid to build farm-to-market roads.

4. Encourage cooperative marketing.

5. Continue the marketing agreement program now in use for dairy products and fresh vegetables.

6. Continue distribution of surplus commodities to the poor as long as a relief problem exists.

The crowd in the Ak-Sar-Ben auditorium applauded Willkie repeatedly through his speech, which was broadcast nationally. The nominee stood on a high platform decorated with his portrait framed in gladioli.

He proposed continuance of five new farm programs, subject, he said, to improvement: soil conservation, commodity loans, rural electrification, a farm credit system under an independent agency, and crop insurance on wheat.

Speech at Fieldhouse
Madison—(P)—With caravans of Republicans enroute to Madison from all parts of the state, the capital city was prepared today to welcome Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential nominee, for his first campaign appearance in Wisconsin here tonight.

Willkie will be Madison's guest for an hour and a half, arriving here on his special train at 7:30 p. m. He will speak at the University of Wisconsin fieldhouse at 8 o'clock p. m. and will leave for Chicago and his swing into the east at 9 p. m.

Republican headquarters reported that delegations were coming to Madison by motor and train from virtually every county and predicted that 25,000 persons would be on hand to greet the presidential candidate.

The fieldhouse has a seating capacity of 15,000, but arrangements have been made to accommodate an overflow crowd that will be able to hear Willkie through loudspeakers on the outside.

Heil Leads Group
Governor Julius P. Heil, general chairman of the occasion, will head a delegation of prominent Republicans to Freeport, Ill., where they will board Willkie's train at 4:45 p. m. Others in this group include Fred H. Hansen, Republican candidate for United States senator; Dr. F. L. Gullickson, state chairman; Lieutenant Governor Walter S. Goodland; secretary of State Fred Zimmerman; Treasurer John M. Smith; Attorney General John E. Martin; James Maxwell Murphy, director of public relations for the state committee; Mayor James R. Law of Madison; Mrs. C. J. Otjen of Milwaukee, chairman of the women's group.

46 Rescued After Eight Days Adrift on Ocean

London—(P)—Back in England today are 46 persons—including six shivering schoolboys—who spent eight days of peril and hardship in a storm-buffed lifeboat after the City of Benares went to the bottom 600 miles out in the Atlantic.

Rescued through the combined work of two British flying boats and a warship, the survivors were landed at a British port late last night.

"We lost all count of time after the first two or three days," said Mary Cornish, 21-year-old school teacher—escort and only woman in the lifeboat.

"But the children were admirable. They passed the time singing and telling stories."

Two hundred and forty-eight of those aboard the Canada-bound City of Benares, 77 of them evacuee children, still are missing and probably are dead. The vessel went down Sept. 17. The British claim she was torpedoed.

Boy Sees Plane

Thirteen-year-old Kenneth Sparks was the first to see the Sunderland flying boat of the coast command which sighted the 46 floating in the storm-tossed waters.

"I shouted 'Look! An airplane,'" Kenneth said. "Everybody looked up and was glad. We started praying. All our children did. The plane circled us. One seaman signaled, and the plane signaled back with a light."

The Sunderland, an Australian air force plane, had just been relieved from convoy escort duty.

Woman Killed in Apartment Hotel

Chicago—(P)—Miss Myrtle Stevens, 35, was bludgeoned to death and two men were injured seriously early today in a northside apartment hotel as the result of what Detective James Dwyer said was a quarrel over the woman's affection.

The men, Virgil Rawlings, 36, and Jesse Oates, 28, the latter described as a family friend who lived with the other principals in the case, were in Bridewell hospital. Physicians gave Oates little chance for recovery.

Dwyer theorized that Rawlings, angered when he found Oates and the woman in an embrace when he returned from an errand, used the hammer to beat Miss Stevens to death and then inflicted the injuries on Oates with the same weapon.

Then, Dwyer continued, Rawlings made an attempt to end his own life by cutting his throat and turning on the gas in the apartment.

THE PRIZE
IS $40,000

There's a man in Kansas who persistently refuses to play bridge with his wife as partner. Would it be talking out of turn to recommend him for this year's Nobel peace prize? He could surely get it if he went after it energetically. That's the way people get what they want, if they use The Post-Crescent classified want-ads. This one, for example brought the prize the advertiser was after, because each want-ad, like virtue, is its own reward.

Steps Being Mapped to Assure
Draftees Jobs After Service

Milwaukee—(P)—Ewan Clague, director of the employment security bureau, told the biennial meeting of the Wisconsin Conference on Social Work today that the United States army and his bureau were developing plans to assist draftees into jobs upon discharge from their year of military service.

Clague's bureau operates under the social security board.

Clague said it is not enough that the draft law provides that men employed when drafted shall have their jobs guaranteed, adding:

"A year from now, employers may have legitimate reasons for not taking a man back. The employer may be out of business or his business may be so poor he cannot take a man back. In addition, many will be drafted who have no job now and for whom efforts should be made for employment when they finish service."

"Therefore, each man inducted into service will have his employment history recorded by the army."

Sometime before the first draftees are mustered out of service, the employment office will, according to the plans, get in touch with former employers to check whether the employer will be able to take his man back. If that job is not there, other employers will be contacted to assist each man to get a job.

"A year hence we will have the situation where a new group of

Axis and Japan Sign Pact for 'New Order' in Europe, Asia

Great Air Battle Over London Area

Scores of Planes Take Part; Threat
Of German Land Invasion Is Waning

London—(P)—A great air battle was fought within the sight of observers in a southwest London suburb this afternoon with at least 100 British and German planes filling the skies after three grand-scale attacks had been made by the nazis in a renewal of their mass assaults on this capital.

The air ministry said 98 German planes had been brought down in a series of blazing air battles up to 5 p. m. (10 a. m., C. S. T.).

British and German long-range artillery also fought a duel across the 22-mile Dover strait, the German shells rocking the Dover area with two shells every two minutes, and the British fire increasing in intensity after an hour.

One formation of nine German planes streaked across central London during the progress of the big battle. They were flying so high they could be seen only by the aid of powerful glasses.

Pound Nazi Coast
Shells burst all around them, and one section of five turned back. The other four disappeared in a cloud as British fighters closed in.

At least 120 German planes took part in the first of three waves this morning, after Britain's own mass formations had delivered the severest attacks yet against Germany and her trans-channel coasts.

A German scout plane, evidently spotting for the range finders back on the French coast, flew high over the Dover area during the shelling.

Then, soon after the shells began to fall, a formation of British bombers roared out to sea toward Cape Gris Nez, where the flashes of the German guns could be seen clearly. Apparently they were bent upon a fierce reply to the German shells.

About 20 bombs were dropped in south London during the first daylight attack today, destroying a number of buildings.

Evidence that the British high command considers the threatened German invasion of England "off"

Nippon Will Not Fight in Europe, Spokesman Says

Declares Tokio Still Hopes to Arrive at
Agreement With U. S.

Tokio—(P)—Japan's new alliance with Germany and Italy does not mean Japan is going to enter the European war, Foreign Office spokesman Yachiro Suma said today.

He said Japan had not abandoned hope of composing her differences with the United States.

Suma declined to make any comment on the fifth article of the pact which says it has no bearing on existing commitments of the signatories with the Soviet union.

"We are not going to participate in the European war. We are not going to attack any country," Suma said, adding the purpose of the pact was to solidify the community of interests of the signatories.

Japan will try to live up to her new responsibilities by peaceful means, but "there is no telling whether there might not arise occasions and circumstances calling for momentous decisions" on her part, Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka told the nation tonight.

In a broadcast he reiterated, however, the statement of the foreign office spokesman that the pact does not necessarily mean Japan will enter the European war.

The announcement of the signing of the new pact did not create great excitement throughout the nation. Newspapers went on the streets with extras, but the populace remained silent and quiet.

10-Year Economic-Military Treaty Seen as Effort to Forestall U. S. War Entry

Berlin—(P)—Germany, Italy and Japan proclaimed to the world today a new political, economic and military treaty guaranteeing each other assistance in the event any other nation—undoubtedly referring to the United States—enters the European war.

The treaty was signed at the chancellery in the presence of Fuehrer Hitler.

The pact recognized the dominance of Germany and Italy in the establishment of a new order in Europe.

Japan was given recognition as the leader in the establishment of a new order in "the realm of greater Asia."

To neutral observers the most obvious effect of the treaty was to insure that should the United States enter the war she would be immediately engaged in the Pacific—under the terms of the mutual assistance clause—with a fleet so big that she would be unable to come to Britain's aid in the Atlantic or Mediterranean. (The Japanese navy is the world's third largest, almost equal to the German and Italian combined.)

If the United States wants to mix in the present war she must fight on two fronts and be prepared to join battle against 250,000,000 Teutons, Latins and Japanese—this, in effect, was the meaning of the three-power pact.

While no particular nation was mentioned, it was clear to the whole audience at the palatial chancellery for the signing ceremony that the pact was intended as a warning to America. The audience consisted of some 200 newspapermen as well as representatives of the German government and the Italian and Japanese embassies.

The scene of the pact signing was one already familiar to foreign correspondents—the big gilded "hall of ambassadors" in the new chancellery. Two huge crystal candelabra cast a festive light on the state ceremonies.

Impressive Ceremony
At the farther end of the hall, next to the door to offices of the cabinet and Fuehrer Hitler, stood a long table with microphones and three leather armchairs—the center one for German Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop, the one to his right for Italian Foreign Minister Ciano and the one to his left for Saburo Kurusu, Japanese ambassador to Germany.

Be-medaled and uniformed military and diplomatic representatives ranked back of the chairs formed an impressive background for signature of the far-reaching agreement.

The ceremony of signature began at 1:15 p. m. (5:15 a. m., C.S.T.).

Two minutes later the door to the right of the long table opened again and the major domo struck the floor thrice with his heavy mace and then Hitler, his face pale and serious, entered.

Von Ribbentrop met him at the door, saluted and said: "My Fuehrer, I report the signing of the German-Italian-Japanese pact."

Hitler was wearing his field-gray party uniform. Quietly someone slipped a fourth chair up to the council table and the Fuehrer sat there, after shaking hands with the three statesmen. Then he motioned to Von Ribbentrop to read the declaration.

"Three United Nations"
Von Ribbentrop, addressing the assembled diplomats and journalists following the reading of the pact warned:

"Any nation which intends to mix in the joint affairs of the contractors (of the new agreement) will have to meet the compact power of the three united nations of 250,000,000 people."

Ciano arrived by plane from Munich for the ceremony of signature. Fog held up his plane and delayed the ceremony an hour.

Von Ribbentrop described the pact as an "alliance of the three most powerful powers in the world."

He said it was directed against "those warmongers in the world who are intending to continue and to spread this war."

The German foreign minister said specifically of soviet Russia:

"The three powers have established that neither the existing relations with Russia nor the relations with Russia which are to be established."

Roosevelt Won't Discuss Treaty

Pact Doesn't Mean Jap Participation in War

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York — (AP) — We shall do well to count 10 before jumping to conclusions regarding Japan's position under the pact signed today between Tokyo, Berlin and Rome.

though it seems clear that one of the chief purposes of such an agreement is to keep America from giving England military assistance beyond the pact with a sweeping restriction on Europe and Asia among the three powers.

but since the value of such an agreement depends on development it is safe to say that the signatories are not entering it with long-range checks Japan can have no delusions about being left alone in possession of Far Eastern domination.

The Japanese position is as full of contradictions as a child's mind. There are no contradictions in the pact.

Fundamental Fact
One fundamental fact from my viewpoint is that Japan is fully determined to remain an aggressive power in the East. At all times Japan has been a power in the East.

The Japanese position is as full of contradictions as a child's mind. There are no contradictions in the pact.

said a clash with America "now seems inevitable." Authorities here expressed belief that President Roosevelt's action in limiting scrap metal exports to the western hemisphere and Britain after Oct. 16 was aimed directly at Japan and might be the prelude to a complete embargo designed to thwart her expansion program.

It generally was expected Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka would deliver to United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew a strong enunciation of the Japanese view that the new measure is discriminatory.

Asahi, commenting upon the scrap metal embargo and the Export-Import bank's announcement of a loan of $20,000,000 to China, said that "the assuming the Chinese government the United States probably seeks to peg Japan's southward movement."

"It now seems inevitable," the paper observed, "that a clash will occur between a Japan determined to establish a sphere of self-sufficiency and a United States equally determined to meddle in affairs on the other side of a vast ocean with every hostile means short of war."

No "Interference"
Posters printed in Japanese and English appeared meanwhile near the United States embassy declaring "Japan won't permit Britain or the United States to interfere in East Asia" and asserting that Japan's southern life-line from the United States.

Informal sources said the scrap metal embargo long had been expected and "suitable measures" had been taken to prepare Japanese industry to withstand the shock. The effect of the embargo, therefore, will be relatively unimportant these sources considered.

The Japanese stock market remained steady after the embargo announcement, and iron, steel, metal and machinery shares were unchanged from strong closing quotations yesterday.

other necessities for just such an emergency. There probably aren't more than a dozen men in the world who know just what those supplies are—and I'm not one of them. Still one assumes that Japan can carry on for a bit.

Therefore it seems to me that her game will be to try to make a quick clean-up of the more risky parts of her program before the embargo, and perhaps further embargoes, pinch her too hard. It may be expected that she will hasten her efforts to bring French Indo-China, and especially the rich Dutch East Indies, under her control in order to help her achieve self-sufficiency and thereby become independent of American supplies.

As regards Japanese adherence to the axis, it must be expected that under the new pact she will continue to give it the support she has been affording—keeping German supplies going through Vladivostok, trying to distract American attention from the European war, and what not. However, it's my view that Tokyo is just as anxious to avoid German interference with her program as she is to keep Britain and the United States at arms length.

Japan's trouble is that she doesn't know who is going to win the European war. She must play both ends against the middle so far as possible, and meanwhile rush her expansion so that it may be an accomplished fact when the victor of the western conflict is free to take a hand in Asiatic affairs, as either Britain or Germany most certainly will do.

Japan's position is further complicated by the ever-present danger of war with Russia. That is why Tokyo now is busy talking an anti-aggression pact with Moscow.

When all is said and done, it seems very sure that Japan doesn't want to get mixed up militarily in the European war or with America at this crucial juncture if it can be avoided.

Pennsylvania GOP Squabbles

So Senator McNary Is Selected to Introduce Willkie

Pittsburgh — (AP) — The question of who would introduce Wendell Willkie, Republican presidential candidate, to a Pittsburgh audience next Thursday appeared settled today with the announcement that his running-mate, Senator Charles L. McNary, would do the job.

Frank J. Harris, Allegheny county (Pittsburgh) Republican chairman, said he was informed by state chairman James F. Torrance yesterday that Governor Arthur H. James would do the introducing.

But Harris—who supported Willkie at the national convention while other Pennsylvania delegates were still seeking the presidential nomination for Governor James—wanted the job himself. He has long been at odds with the state committee.

So Harris appealed to national chairman Joseph W. Martin. He later said Martin would attend himself and had arranged for Senator McNary, the party's vice presidential nominee, to handle the introducing.

Thus the program at Forbes field next Thursday shapes up like this: Harris will open the rally and introduce McNary, who will introduce Willkie.

Johns Wants State Fruits as Regular Item On the Army's Menu

Washington — (AP) — Apples, apple juice, cherries and cherry juice will become regular items on the soldier's menu if army officials approve a recommendation by Representative John (R-Wis.).

The congressman, in a letter to Major J. J. Powers of the war department's quartermaster corps, said he would like to see these articles placed on the same status as grapefruit, oranges and pineapples.

"I hope you will give this suggestion your very best consideration," Johns wrote, "and my hope is that these articles may be made a part of the subsistence of the United States army."

"In my district we produce some of the finest apples and cherries in the world. We have an abundance of them."

WAR VISITS DOOR OF LONDON AP OFFICE—The glare of a fire caused by an aerial bomb here lights up the London office building of The Associated Press. War Situation Today

Hitler Present as Axis Signs Ten-Year Pact With Japanese

Adolf Hitler stepped up the fury of his assault against Britain on both the diplomatic and fighting fronts today.

While hundreds of Nazi warplanes stormed England in one of the greatest aerial offensives of the war, Hitler and his axis partner, Italy, enrolled Japan in a "world front" military alliance.

With formal pen strokes, the new Berlin-Rome-Tokyo bloc divided Europe and the Orient into spheres of influence—and sounded a thinly-veiled warning to the United States not to come to the aid of beleaguered Britain or China.

Above the diplomatic fanfare, German and British long-range guns shelled each other in a prolonged cross-channel artillery duel that rocked both coasts, and in the skies Nazi warplanes clashed with R. A. F. defense craft in a series of blazing battles.

Late in the afternoon, the British officially reported at least 98 German raiders had been shot down. Meeting in the ornate chancellery in Berlin, signatories for the three nations joined in a 10-year military and economic pact, pledging the combined armed might of 250,000,000 persons against any outside interference with their aims.

Axis spokesmen said flatly that the agreement was aimed at forestalling possible United States entry into the conflict.

Germany, Italy and Japan signed a 10-year military and economic pact today which axis spokesmen said was aimed at forestalling possible entry of the United States into the European war.

Adolf Hitler witnessed the signing of the pact, which in effect was a blunt "hands off" warning to the United States against any military participation either in Europe or the Far East.

The key clause in the six-point agreement, apparently, was this: "Germany, Italy and Japan undertake to assist one another with all political, economic and military means when one of the three contracting powers is attacked by a power at present not involved in the European war or in the Sino-Japanese conflict."

Japan repeatedly had complained against alleged "outside interference" by the United States in Japan's so-called "legitimate" expansion thrusts in the Orient, and in Tokyo today the influential newspaper Asahi declared a clash with America "now seems inevitable."

Posters were plastered near the United States embassy in Tokyo proclaiming: "Japan won't permit Britain or the United States to interfere in East Asia."

August Exports Of Evaporated Milk Increase

Marching Armies of Europe Instrumental In Record Business

Chicago — (AP) — Marching armies of Europe were instrumental in boosting August exports of evaporated milk to 52,936,982 pounds, compared with 15,068,254 in the previous month and 1,937,885 in August, 1939, traders said today.

Most of the shipments went to Great Britain, which, because of invasion of the lowlands and Denmark, has been cut off from her most important sources of supplies. Traders believed that the exports of evaporated milk to Britain were mostly the consumption of orders placed in June, inasmuch as no further sales have been made public.

Increased foreign demand, traders said, aided in boosting August average price per case to $2.86, representing gains of 1 per cent over the July average, 18 per cent over the August, 1939 average, and 4 per cent over the 1934-39 average.

Cite Convenience
Despite an agreement between Canada and the United Kingdom whereby Canada will supply the British ministry of foods with at least 13,050,000 pounds of evaporated milk by Dec. 31, producers anticipate additional future foreign business. They base this belief on the fact that canned milk is the most convenient form in which this dairy product can be carried by moving armies.

Anticipation of increased foreign demand together with the possibility of American army orders, has been largely responsible for record production in August, traders said. August output totaled 231,572,000 pounds, the largest for this month on record and 21 per cent heavier than a year ago, according to the agricultural marketing service.

Reflecting this 34 per cent heavier than average production, stocks continued to increase during August and on Sept. 1 totaled 349,433,000 pounds, a decrease of 5,638,000 from a year ago, but an increase of 33 per cent over the five year average for the date.

Juneau — (AP) — Charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, Elmer P. Zimdars, disbarred Milwaukee attorney, was sentenced today to three consecutive terms of 11 to 12 months in state prison by Circuit Judge Edward J. Gehl yesterday.

The state charged that Zimdars accepted $100 cash from several persons after promising to get them jobs with the state beverage tax division.

Zimdars has been in the Dodge county jail under $3,000 bond since Feb. 28.

Van Wagenen said Martin reduced departmental expenses $81,000 by discontinuing almost completely the practice of engaging special counsel and effecting various other economies.

Urges Realtors to Take Leadership in Emergency Housing

Milwaukee — (AP) — Government housing should be held to a minimum so as not to weaken the nation's private industrial structure, the Wisconsin Association of Real Estate Brokers was told last night.

Newton C. Farr, of Chicago, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, in a convention banquet address, asserted that realtors would face a government-regimented housing drive if they did not "initiate the worthiness of private initiative."

He urged real estate boards to take the leadership in providing homes for emergency defense industry workers.

Herbert U. Nelson, of Chicago, vice president of the national association, told the convention that great shifts in population would result from the national defense program, bringing with it housing emergencies.

Leonard A. Grass, of Milwaukee, was elected president of the state association, succeeding Jesse R. Schuster, of Beloit.

Other officers named were Paul Redeman, of Oshkosh, vice president; and G. H. Hafemeister, of Watertown, secretary-treasurer. John Roache, of Milwaukee, was re-elected executive secretary.

New Cheerleaders In Charge of Pep Session at School

Appleton High school's cheerleaders made their first performance of the year at a pep rally in the auditorium Thursday afternoon in preparation for the football game with Sheboygan North Saturday afternoon. They were assisted by the high school's new swing band which offered "Muskrat Ramble," "Pennsylvania 6-5000" and "Blueberry Hill."

Cheerleaders this season are Mabel Loose, Jean Rindal, Richard Pardee, Ruby Loose, Roger Kirk-eide, Orville Babb, James Kluge and Margie Foxgrover. Kluge and Babb are recruits to the group.

Members of the pep band are Ralph Buesing, director, Robert Hoh, Edgar Thomas, Roman Schmid, Gale Bock, George Dear, Clifford Ramsey, Kenneth Gertsch, Guy Barlow, Kenneth Dickinson, David Gallaher and Donald Van Handel. Charles Benjamin is the vocalist.

Purchase House

Miss Philippine Emmel, et al, has purchased a house and part of a lot on N. Union street from L. R. and president, New York state Schwarz. The new owners do not plan to occupy the home. The real estate transfer has been filed at the office of Stephen M. Peeters, Outagamie county register of deeds.

Kaukauna Odd Fellows Will Entertain District Lodges

Kaukauna—Kaukauna Odd Fellows will entertain members of lodges in District 19, including Appleton, Menasha, Oshkosh, Omro, Winneconne and Stockbridge at 8 o'clock Saturday evening at their lodge here. Officials of the grand lodge will be present.

Mrs. Anna Hitting entertained the Schafskopf club at her Appleton home Wednesday afternoon, with prizes going to Mrs. Henry Keyzers, Mrs. Jettie Gendron and Mrs. Jacob Strohacker. Mrs. Albert Wolf received the traveling award.

American Legion Auxiliary will install officers Thursday evening at Legion hall, with a 6:30 dinner preceding the meeting. Mrs. Mabel Jows will be chairman.

Menasha Will Test Power of Kaukauna Eleven

Invading Team Will Be Primed to Stop Conference Champions

Kaukauna — The town will find out tomorrow afternoon if last week's decisive win over West De Pere showed Kaukauna strength or DePere weakness. A veteran Menasha team will provide the test, with the kickoff slated for 2 o'clock. Coach Paul E. Little sent his charges through a scrimmage last night, in which the regulars clicked both in their ground and aerial game.

The Menashas will be primed to stop the Kaws' string of Northeastern conference victories, which has now reached 14. A 19 to 7 defeat by West DePere in 1937 was the last time the Littlemen went under.

14 Lettermen — The Bluejays will depend mainly upon Roland O'Brien, hard running back who has stood out in previous contests between the two teams. The Jays have 14 lettermen available to assist O'Brien, of whom 10 are seniors.

On the other hand the visitors will have their hands full in trying to stop Karl Giordana, something which hasn't happened for two seasons. Last week Giordana averaged 7 1/2 yards each try, completed six of seven passes and stood out on defense.

The Kaukauna aerial game, good for 7 completions in 8 attempts last week, will make a lot of trouble for any team which concentrates on stopping the running of Giordana, Bob Danner and Willis Ranguette. In Bill Alger and Leo Rohan, lanky senior ends, the Kaws have a pair of receivers equal to anything in the loop.

The starting Kaukauna lineup tomorrow will have Alger and Rohan at ends, Jim Helf and Eugene Kelly at guard, Calvin Spice and Ray Hurst at tackle, John Vette at center, and Giordana, Danner, Ranguette and Joe Regenfuss in the backfield.

Kaukauna Students Form Safety Council

Kaukauna—High school students have formed a student safety council, to cooperate with the Women's club and the state highway commission in reducing accidents. Appointed to the council by faculty advisers have been William Dryer, John Vette, James DeGoey and Carol Leigh. Activities of the council will be carried out in connection with home room programs.

Two Kaukauna Girls Enter Nurse School

Kaukauna—Two Kaukauna girls, Gertrude Deno and Jean Gorrow, have enrolled in Cook County School of Nursing, Chicago. The 3-year course combines formal classroom instruction with practice in caring for patients in Cook county hospital.

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Mertes barbershop on Wisconsin avenue. William Dowling is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 107. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their orders were not delivered.

Willkie's Problem Is to Boost 'Big City' Strength

BY DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J.—As Wendell Willkie swings back eastwards from his first major tour of the 1940 campaign, the nation-wide survey of the American Institute of Public Opinion underlines the vote-getting problem Willkie has been facing in the past two weeks.

Dr. Gallup

While the Republican Presidential candidate is substantially stronger in all groups of the population than was Governor Landon four years ago, the survey shows that Willkie still needs to increase his strength in the larger cities and towns, and among the voters earning $20 to $50 a week, if he is to win in November. Willkie has been leading President Roosevelt among midwestern farm voters in the area between the Ohio River and the Rockies, the survey shows, but at the present time this strength is more than offset by Mr. Roosevelt's majorities in the cities and towns.

President Roosevelt is strongest with voters in cities of 500,000 population and more, such as New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit and elsewhere. But Republican leaders can take comfort from the fact that even in these cities the President's strength is substantially below his vote on election day four years ago.

The latest Institute figures, broken down by size of city, with the Republican gains since the 1936 election, are as follows:

Cities (As of Mid-September)	% Roosevelt	% Willkie	Points of GOP Gain Since 1936 Election
Cities 500,000 and Over	61%	39%	+10
Cities 250,000 to 500,000	55	45	+6
Towns Under 2,500	51	49	+10
All Farm Voters	53	47	+6
Only Farmers	46	54	+10

The figures reported above are based on nation-wide samplings conducted during the first two weeks of September, when many Republican leaders believe the Willkie campaign had not yet gotten into high gear. New Institute surveys, covering the period of Mr. Willkie's western trip, will be completed in time for publication in the Appleton Post-Crescent early in October.

The present survey does give a picture of political sentiment at the half-way mark, however, and indicates the strength and weaknesses of the two candidates as the race enters the final stages.

As in 1936, the Republican candidate is assured of a large majority with voters in the upper income group (those earning more than $50 a week). The striking income-cleavage shown in the Presidential vote four years ago is even wider today, the survey shows:

Income Group (As of Mid-September)	% Roosevelt	% Willkie	Points of GOP Gain Since 1936 Election
Upper Income Group (Over $50 a Week)	32%	68%	+11
Middle Income Group ($20-$50 a Week)	52	48	+6
Lower Income Group (Including Persons on Relief)	71	29	+4
On Relief	80	20	+4

In other words, while Mr. Willkie is stronger than Governor Landon in every income level, his gains have been proportionately greatest in the upper income groups, smallest in the lower income levels.

Vote by Age Groups — Analysis of the vote by age levels shows that there is apparently less cleavage between the various age groups today than there was in 1936. This is partly due to the fact that Mr. Willkie has made a much stronger appeal to younger voters and first voters than Governor Landon did.

Following are the comparisons for the age-group vote today and in 1936:

Voters 21-24	% Roosevelt	% Willkie
(As of Mid-September)
Years Old	59%	41%
Voters 25-29	59	41
Voters 30-39	56	44
Voters 40-49	54	46
Voters 50 and Over	54	46
Age-Group Vote in 1936
Years Old	68%	32%
Voters 25-29	68	32
Voters 30-39	65	35
Voters 40-49	58	42
Voters 50 and Over	56	44

Transient Relief Bill Reduced at Waupaca

Waupaca—Bills for transients' meals which for many years were a problem for city officials to solve have become a negligible item. The average monthly expenditure for feeding transients had been approximately $45 but it was not unusual to have the bills mount to $76 a month. When a bill for more than $80 was presented the council decided it was time to do something about it.

Mayor I. B. Erickson proposed a system of meal tickets. It was agreed that one 15-cent meal ticket would be issued to each transient if requested before 8 a. m. o'clock from Chief of Police Paul Jones. With the ticket would be given an invitation to leave town and the assurance that no more meals would be furnished.

In the first two and a half months after the plan was adopted the entire bill aggregated $5.55 and for the

THE JOURNAL GIVES YOU A RINGSIDE SLANT ON THE PACE OF Politics

If you want a press-row seat at the conflict of candidates, read the unbiased facts about the political battlers in the daily and Sunday Milwaukee Journal. Graphic "blow-by-blow" accounts of the Big Scrap... written by politically-wise Journal experts... will help you keep tab on the tide of battle, and enable you to logically elect the best men at the polls in November. True to policy, The Journal will steer a neutral course in its political news gathering. Wisconsin folk like to use their own horse-sense in arriving at a decision... so The Journal presents both sides of the picture completely and impartially. Which, no doubt, is one of the big reasons why this newspaper has won such a tremendous statewide circulation... now the biggest in The Journal's publishing history.

COMING ★ IN THE LIVELY JOURNAL

Uncle Sam's Headaches

In 1920, there were 42 vital war materials that could not be obtained within the United States. Science has since found substitutes for 28 of these "strategic materials"—but 14 still are puzzling the experts. What these materials are—what Uncle Sam is doing about them—gives us a fascinating story of American inventive genius that everyone will want to read. In Sunday's "This Week" magazine!

Low's War Cartoons

Low's lampooning of Hitler made the Fuehrer fume. His cartoons condemning Chamberlain rocked England. So Low qualifies as the world's foremost political caricaturist! In view of the present war crisis, his work should have wide appeal among Journal readers. Daily and Sunday, in the News pages!

Sister Bay in 'Wondrous Wisconsin'

Based on suggestions from widely traveled Badger residents, twelve of Wisconsin's foremost scenic spots are being pictured in Journal Roto. The third of this "Wondrous Wisconsin" gallery, coming Sunday, will show Sister Bay, in picturesque Door county. See this grand marine view!

"Mother and Me"—a Pioneer Story

This is a thrilling account of the adventures of a hardy pioneer woman... who as an infant, came from New York by ox team to Racine. Her school days at Lawrence College... her nursing experiences during the Civil War... these are but a few of the highlights included in this narrative that spans 104 years of Wisconsin history. Here's a treat for both oldsters and youngsters... starting in The Journal Green Sheet, September 30!

PRESIDENTIAL BATTLEFIELD

Consistent with The Journal's policy of political non-partisanship, this feature will give both Democrats and Republicans an equal chance to air their views. Contributions will not be censored in any way by Journal editors. If you want to get both sides of the current political picture, don't miss this stirring Sunday feature... from now 'til election... in the Editorial section!

Made-in-America Modes

When the war forced Paris out of the fashion picture, feminine hearts missed a beat. But New York designers came to the rescue... and American women are still the world's best dressed! These made-in-America fashions are being shown by Betty Ann in a delightful series, the fourth of which appears Sunday... in the Women's pages!

THIS WAS A SWIMMING POOL—Swimming pools must make way for progress and here's the way it happens. This was the site of Appleton's municipal swimming pool and workmen are shown installing a 24-inch pipe line which will carry raw water to the Appleton purification plant's new chemical building for treatment. Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

The Greater War Begins

Once Hitler broke through the Allied defenses on the Western Front, the European war was destined inevitably to become in the literal sense, and not merely rhetorically, a world war. We are now witnessing the events which were prepared in May. The battles over Enland and northern Europe and in the English Channel, at Gibraltar, towards Egypt and Suez, at Dakar in Africa, and in French Indo-China, are the opening battles of a great campaign in which there is at stake, not frontiers in the European continent, but the mastery of the oceans of the world.

These battles at so many widely separated points across more than half the world, are strategically one great battle. A study of the map or rather of the globe of the earth will show that these battles are being fought at all the gateways through which Germany, Italy, and Japan must pass if they are to break the naval power which now limits their conquests to the territories they can occupy with their armies. For if they are to become the undisputed masters of Europe, Asia and Africa they must be masters of the seas. They must knock out that sea power which is the shield and the sword of the free nations, and they must themselves rule the seas. This, therefore, is no longer. The Battle of Britain alone. This is the first phase of The Battle of The Great Oceans.

Campaigns Aimed at Plugs in Sea Routes

Warships alone cannot control the oceans. They must have fortified harbors from which to operate, shipyards and drydocks and repair shops, and all the passage ways from one ocean to another must be held. The shortest passage way between the Atlantic and the Pacific is the Panama Canal. By holding the canal our fleet can be concentrated in either ocean. But Panama is not the only passageway between the two oceans. There is another way which runs through the English Channel, the Straits of Gibraltar, the Suez Canal and past Singapore. This is the way the Russian fleet went to the Pacific in the Russo-Japanese war. This is the way the British and French fleets have generally gone from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

At the present time we control the Panama passage from the Atlantic to the Pacific and Britain controls the other passage. While this control remains, the German, Italian and Japanese navies are divided: the passages through which they must pass in order to concentrate their forces for a decisive blow are plugged in the English Channel, at Gibraltar, Suez and Singapore. The campaign which is now engaged has for its objective the removal of these plugs. This is the meaning of the Japanese movement into Indo-China and Siam at the backdoor of Singapore; of the Italian campaign in Somalia and in Egypt; of the Italian incursions against Greece of the pressure of the Axis on Spain in regard to Gibraltar, and upon the Vichy government in regard to the French African empire on the Atlantic Ocean. The grand objective of the Axis is to crush sea power in its main base in the British Isles and at the same time to clear the passageway from Europe to the Pacific so that the German, Italian and Japanese navies shall be free to act together. If this objective is attained, the world ocean will be divided into two oceans, with the initiative in the hands of Japan, Germany and Italy.

This is really the most serious prospect that has confronted this nation for a hundred years, that is to say, since the breakdown of the Spanish empire under the blows of Napoleon and the subsequent alliance of Russia, Prussia, Austria, France and Spain. In the twenty-five years, from 1798 to 1823, from the first news that Spain had ceded Louisiana to France until the Canning-Rush negotiations laid the foundation of the Monroe Doctrine, the United States stood in the greatest peril. In these twenty-five years the United States was threatened by Russia coming down the Pacific Coast from Alaska, by Napoleonic France established in New Orleans, in Florida, and in the West Indies and by a continental alliance that aimed at the conquest of Central and South America.

The peril passed because in the end Great Britain defeated Napoleon and was powerful enough, therefore, to forbid the continental alliance to embark on the conquest of Spanish America. Without the British naval victory at Trafalgar, the failure of Napoleon to invade Great Britain, and in the end his final fall at Waterloo, it is difficult to imagine how the small weak republic of the United States could have prevented the European struggle for empire from embracing the Western Hemisphere. If this had not been prevented, our century of isolation would not have been a century of isolation.

Citadel of Sea Power Must Be Held Firmly

We shall do well to remember these things now. For though the circumstances are different, though the balance of forces is different, the central principle of our policy must be the same. We must see, even more lucidly and consistently than our Jefferson and Madison, and at every weakly defended point that if the great oceans are not strategic point on the shores of the controlled by ourselves and by nations with whom we have a common interest, there must develop a gigantic struggle on these oceans of a sound strategy is not to scatter one's forces but at all costs to keep together and intact a superior fleet, and to hold its most vital bases. The most vital base of the Anglo-American sea power is the British Isles, on which the British fleet is based, and the critical region is the North Atlantic Ocean from Ireland to Panama to Dakar. This is the citadel of British and American power, and it should be held firmly, remembering always that we must not become deeply engaged at any outpost in the more distant oceans as long as the security of the North Atlantic region is in doubt. For within the North Atlantic region lie the capital sources of British and American sea power; from this region of our factories, shipyards, mines and fields must come virtually all the power that either nation can exercise in the far Pacific, in South America, in Africa, or anywhere else.

SHOWING AT RIO—Tyrone Power and Linda Darnell have the leading romantic roles in "Brigham Young, Frontiersman," current attraction at the Rio theater. Co-featured on the same program is the picturization of the famous Saturday Evening Post football story, "Yesterday's Heroes."

We must remember that the world is not flat like a map printed in a newspaper but that it is a globe. Therefore, we must not forget for one instant that we are witnessing one great battle for mastery of the seas, not a series of unrelated and accidental engagements in distant places for the mere seizure of deserts and jungles in Africa and Asia.

Bearing that in mind, we shall mix courage with prudence; we shall have the courage to take all possible measures to support British resistance at the center of the whole conflict, and with it the prudence to avoid a decisive entanglement anywhere else until the defense of the North Atlantic region is secured.

Trusty Sentinels on Our Ramparts

Last Friday a three year-old child was kidnapped for ransom near his home in a San Francisco suburb.

By Saturday noon quarter page pictures of him printed in the newspapers had been received in every locality in the Golden state. The people had also read the details of the detestable offense including the kidnaper's typed message tossed on the sidewalk as he sped away with the child.

The reaction was quiet, one might say almost sullen, but the results showed in a few hours that a draft had been opened upon the fire that burns in the souls of indignant men who have become outraged at some intolerable mendacity.

Here immediately confronting and opposing the kidnaper was one of those impalpable factors that determine results where human beings are involved. The stalking jaguar never for a moment realized, could not even conceive, that the quickly approaching Sunday was to be his undoing, else he would have fixed Monday for his crime. For on the day of rest a voluntary army without orders and without leadership turned out in California to search the mountainous country with its thousands of gulches, canyons and ravines, and its almost unlimited forest areas that appear impenetrable after one has left the highway.

The jaguar, taking a little frequented and well concealed mountain road had never dreamed of the Miracle of Decency. His abhorrent act would arouse and that men whose hands had dropped pen, saw and cant hook would be marching with steps of thunder. The heartless whelp had no appreciation of the feelings aroused in a sound citizenry when their heartstrings are twisted raw.

And so it came to pass that the kidnaper, about 48 hours after snatching the child, met Cecil Wetzel, alone among the giant pines, and Wetzel, eyes sharpened for evidence, asked the identity of the child in the back seat. The kidnaper thought exhibition of a gun would solve the little dilemma. But the Miracle of Decency banishes fear of firearms. And Wetzel, forty, a former college football star, and manager of a little lumber company proudly named after himself, waded in to mortal combat, slugging as no ring champion ever slugged before. Shortly Ellis Wood, a worker with the Wetzel Lumber Company, came on the run. The kidnaper, smashed and exhausted, was subdued, trussed hand and foot and turned over to the authorities, while the child was returned to its parents sure that it had been on a fine lark.

In the physical encounter the kidnaper was fired only by the natural animal desire to save his spotted hide. But Wetzel was fired by a greater stoker, the high indignation and detestation of mankind at an abomination. It is men like Wetzel and Wood who made a country great, quiet men treading paths in the hamlets and villages and walking secluded avenues away from the great arteries of traffic. These are the fellows who were fighting at Lexington and Gettysburg. Then they had no time to lag or complain about sore feet, and military police were never needed to herd them toward their duties.

California merits national approval, not because of its migratory army, its ham-and-egggers, its Hollywood adulators or any other form of screwball the state of great climate has produced. But because of that army of silent and determined men, of whom Wetzel and Wood are types, that turned out to see what could be done about running a blood-hungry jaguar to earth. They are an omen of such brightness the light is cast a long distance in advance.

Thanks to Italy

Italy's crude and naked statement that it joined the war for what there is in it contains the kernel of a great blessing to the American people.

Mussolini employed the harsh language of the fifteenth century in talking his stand. Others, although holding the self-same opinions, log their thoughts out in prettier words.

But the American should ask himself pointedly this question: How many nations engaged in the perpetual European struggle ever go into war for motives other than mercenary? It does make us look a little goofy to have participated in a great war and actually have turned the tide in it when we were the only one motivated by altruistic purposes.

Everything in these European conflicts is practically the same as when Julius Caesar spread the gospel and government of Rome, everything but the people involved and their weapons. In the remorseless course of nature the people had to die. And in whetting their revenge against each other they improved upon the destructiveness of their weapons.

But the issues over there are eternal. They are the same now as when Judea was invaded.

And the fiercest and most furious Armageddons have not served to alter them in any important particulars.

Wisconsin Labor, The Journal And Mr. Green

Yesterday we printed a dispatch concerning the attack made by the President of the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor against the Milwaukee Journal because of an editorial criticism of William Green, head of the AFL.

One editorial article does not make a policy any more than one mallard makes a hunting season. The Journal and Mr. Ohi may be left to their own particular debate with little of misgiving since each is well prepared to handle a full side of any joust.

But since the quarrel arose over Mr. Green's expressed aversion to racketeering practices in the labor movement and the Journal's statement of dissatisfaction concerning the course Mr. Green has been pursuing it is in point to remark that a man by the name of Pegler has done about as much for the worker and the future of the American Federation of Labor during the last year as any one individual.

Mr. Pegler, as we have observed before, is an iconoclast who swings a crashing hammer upon clay or wooden figures that have been deceiving the public into believing they were Carrara marble statues. Often the sledge swinger like Mr. Pegler occasions injury to the innocent. One can never know how far the splinters will fly. But the fact is, nevertheless, that Pegler's exposures and Tom Dewey's prosecutions have given hoodlums a rather sour stomach in coping off any more labor unions, and at the same time have given thousands of workers a breathing spell from these enormous and suffocating slugs that rode their backs. It would have been a great thing for the scrub woman, sewer cleaners, street sweepers, and affiliated unions that were so heavily hit by the gangsters if the millions of which they were robbed had been devoted to honest softening of those situations of distress that every person is bound to meet on the road of life.

But while we would not raise a straw against Mr. Pegler's swinging arm when he is after the Scareless type honest comment is incomplete without mention of the long road the federation has come, the advances it has made and, particularly, the problems it has met and must meet.

The explanation once made by Mr. Green indicates that in order to secure the affiliation of large groups it has been necessary to issue charters granting particular or special rights. The people have noted with what ease certain unions have walked in or out of the federation structure. The Garment Makers of New York quit the AFL for the CIO, then quit the CIO for the AFL. The Typographical Union walked out of the AFL and maintained itself in sunny independence for a spell. Federation leaders in granting special charters may have been motivated by the idea of completing the particular affiliation expecting later to be relieved of the special and unusual clauses of agreement. But plans do not always bear the fruit expected, particularly when the Scareless are on the lam and the CIO offers its peck of oats if its halter is worn.

The place where Mr. Green, we think, has fallen down, is in failing to utilize congressional action to rid every labor organization of the hoodlum element. A very effective job may be performed by amending the Wagner Act with this end in view, an idea that has been printed in these columns on numerous occasions. If every unpardoned ex-convict were prevented from holding either elective or appointive office in every labor union a step of great proportions would have been taken to save the workers from the spurred and riding racketeers and would, at the same time, put all labor groups on the same plane and prevent the knuckling in of anyone to the high binders.

But the Wagner Act is a sacred cow to the Third Termers. It may be bowed down before, but any whisper that it is defective or needs modification is heresy.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

LESSON OF THE TREES

A tree does not complain,
But if it should despair,
It has for tears the rain;
It has for sighs the air.

A tree, upright and proud,
By stalwart roots confined,
Is not by tempests cowed,
But leans against the wind.

A tree can satisfy
Man's inmost secret yearning.
With strong arms lifted high,
It welcomes his returning.

And if he hears the song,
It murmurs endlessly,
It says to him: "Be strong,
And learn of faith from me!"

BY DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN
Washington—Philadelphia's Jack Kelly, who has been asked by the president to draw up a program for civilian health training, has some observations worth noting regarding the physical softness of the American people.

He points out that we now ride in automobiles instead of walking sit down at machines in factories, have devised every conceivable means of taking life easy. Even in football, Kelly points out, 80,000 people will gather to see 22 play.

And when young people go to parties they don't even start until 11 p. m., whereas most people used to be in bed by midnight. The kids are drinking and carousing entirely too much, says Kelly, and the nation has grown so soft that he predicts only 33 per cent of the men drafted will be found physically fit.

Kelly, once a crack oarsman, will recommend a physical culture course for the nation.

DRAFT WORRIES

War department officials are hoping that when they register the draft on October 16, they will have no such difficulties as in 1917. At that time, men got out their shotguns and squirrel rifles in certain parts of the country and indicated they preferred to fight the draft rather than fight the Germans.

In Texas, the Farmers and Laborers Protective association held a state convention, May 5, 1917, in which leaders denounced the president, the congress and the draft. They urged members to equip themselves with rifles and ammunition for resistance to draft officers. Local officials who denounced them were marked for death.

The organization was disbanded, however, when the Justice department investigated.

Other states where resistance was offered were North Carolina, Montana, Oklahoma, Georgia, Virginia, West Virginia, Utah and Arizona.

TOURING WITH WILLKIE

Willkie's campaign entourage was disconcerted by his mishaps at the start in Chicago, but they now feel it was all for the best because he learned valuable lessons which should stand him in good stead for the rest of the battle.

The experience forcibly impressed on the dynamic GOP standard bearer the desirability of a slower and more dignified pace. He concluded his western tour as a far more effective campaigner. But the training certainly was obtained the hard way—not only by Willkie but by members of his personal staff.

On the first days out on the trip, relations between Russell ("Mich") Davenport, former Fortune editor and Willkie "discoverer," and Howard Gallagher, in charge of the train's schedule, became so frigid that they stopped talking to each other. Most of the other members of the entourage also sputtered privately about "Mich."

One reason for this was a $269 telephone bill which Davenport ran up in calls to Chicago. John Hollister, former Ohio congressman and law partner of Senator Bob Taft, who acted as political contact man on the tour and was very successful at the job, finally smoothed things out. But it took some pointed talking—including one lecture to Willkie himself.

Hollister asked a barber shaving him what he thought of Willkie, and got the reply: "If I had been for him I wouldn't be now. His cuss words are not the kind of language we like to hear from a president." Hollister bluntly related the incident to Willkie.

Note—A transcript of Willkie's stockyard speech shows that he used the words "damned dumb" nine times in 25 minutes. Stockyard workers didn't like to be talked down to.

HIGH SPOTS, LOW SPOTS

As on all campaign trips, there were high spots and low spots. Willkie drew excellent crowds, but in some places his enthusiastic boosters were over-zealous in their predictions.

In Los Angeles, 60,000 turned out to hear him—a superb showing. But it was below the 100,000 he was assured would be present. Also, the movie colony in Hollywood was cool, with only around 3,000 in the bowl, which can accommodate 35,000.

The only big screen figure present was Robert Montgomery, who introduced the candidate. This was a big disappointment to the correspondents. They were all keyed up to see Dorothy Lamour, Hedy Lamarr and other glamour girls—but none showed up, and later it developed they were all for Roosevelt.

After the big Los Angeles reception Thursday, Willkie's staff didn't have the heart that night to show him the latest Gallup poll figures. They let him have a peaceful night's sleep and produced the report at breakfast next morning.

At Bakersfield, where a "Frontier Days" rodeo was in progress, the local morning paper promised a crowd of 100,000 for Willkie's appearance. Only 7,000 showed up for the 10 a. m. meeting. A taxi driver explained, "They like to sleep late in this town."

The stop at Modesto provided a big laugh for everyone, including the candidate. A local GOP celebrity introduced Willkie with a rhetorical flourish that concluded with this gem: "Not only is he the friend of the farmer and the laboring man, but also the great friend of the public utilities."

Note—Willkie has changed his mind about ghost writers. Several months ago he lambasted their use, but his farm speech is largely the work of Representative Cliff Hope of Kansas, one of the chief authors of the GOP agricultural plank. Hope was assisted by Don Berry, able Indianola, Ia., newsman, and other midwestern leaders.

HULL'S "DASTARDLY" WORD

Following Cordell Hull's press conference in which he characterized the sinking of the British refugee ship as "a most dastardly act," newsmen asked permission to use direct quotes, usually not allowed in state-department practice.

Hull was willing, and his press officer, Sheldon Thomas, brought the word to the press room, where the men were already dictating their stories. Thomas advised each man in turn, including the German DNB correspondent, Kurt Sell.

"O.K." said Sell. "But I want to ask you something. What is the exact meaning of that word 'dastardly'?"

Thomas drew himself up. "I'll have to refer you to the dictionary," he said.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Someone remarked to "Cotton Ed" Smith, unconstructed senator from South Carolina, that Roosevelt was his own worst enemy. "Not while I'm living," replied Cotton Ed. . . . J. Edgar Hoover's G-men have been worked almost to death with espionage and fifth column cases, plus normal activities.

A Bystander In Washington

BY JACK STINNETT

Washington—Notes from the CCC (the reference herein to C-men is not my invention; the boys of the Civilian Conservation Corp refer to themselves that way).

Powers, Ore.—From an unpretentious member of the local CCC company to an army air corps lieutenant in less than two years is the record of former Enrolee

Robert W. Fish. Fish progressed from "average enrolee" to powder man (in charge of blasting on the Rogue river project), to camp photographer, to camp newspaper editor, to Ohio State University freshman (working his way through), to graduate of the Army air corps base training school at Glenview, Ill., and the advanced schools at Randolph and Kelly Fields in Texas. He's now with the 90th Bombardment Squadron at March Field, Calif.

Minersville, Calif.—An epidemic of Indian hair-do's followed the camp showing here of the movie, "Geronimo." The favorite was the "scalp-lock," consisting of a shaved head except for a waving patch of hair at the top of the noggin. Instead of scalping the fanatics, Company Commander Stambaugh did a reverse Indian on the old Redskin torture method. Those whose hair has grown out can now emerge from barracks.

Bluffton, Ind.—Junior Leader Stanley Thompson was awarded a shiny new double-bitted axe for winning the chopping contest at the camp here. Teamed with Keith Bostwick, he also won the sawing contest.

Westfield, Mass.—After city firemen had "put out" the same forest fire three times in two days, C-men, armed with camp firefighting equipment, gave the blaze the once-over. P. S. It's still out.

Boulder City, Nev.—Our No. 1 nominee for the little man who had a busy day: Estel "Shorty" Fout. Sitting on a float, about 500 feet offshore in the choppy blue waters of Lake Mead, a few miles above Boulder Dam, Shorty heard the help cry of camp-stricken Robert Bullman of Los Angeles. Shorty rescued Bullman, using break-holds and a chest-cross carry he had been taught at camp. A few minutes later, Shorty rescued Miss Vida White, 23 years old, Santa Monica, Calif., and an hour later Miss Helen McCoy of Oklahoma City, Okla. Lifeguard Paul Gustlin gave C-man Fout high praise for his day's work.

Mill Creek, Calif.—Among "the wild visitors" to the camp here are a flock of bears who walk through (never around) the camp to the garbage pits. Just before dark, the C-men climb into trees to watch the evening parade. So far not a bear has been hugged.

Meade, Kas.—C-men here are gunning for the hit-and-run driver who killed "Minnie-the-Moocher," the camp's pet dog who was so tame she would enter the mess hall at meal times looking for her hand-out. The camp poets are working on an epic ode to Minnie, into which the further tragic note is being introduced that an autopsy disclosed Minnie was about to present the camp herd with a new addition.

Outing, Minn.—Jim Companion, pitching a double-header for the local camp's baseball team, defeated the Effic and Side Lake camps for the sub-district championship. He fanned 33 men.

Candidates File Their Expense Accounts for County Primary Race

Waupaca—Statements of expenditures of candidates in the primary election showed A. Don Zwickey, Clintonville, defeated candidate for district attorney as having spent the most money. He listed expenses of $194.93 while his opponent, J. Kyle Anderson, winner of the nomination, spent $137.73.

Walter Hoyard, Scandinavia, incumbent surveyor, listed no expenses and L. J. Stadler, incumbent treasurer, reported 50 cents. Two candidates in the primary have not yet listed their expenses, Dr. L. J. Patterson, Waupaca, defeated candidate for coroner on the Progressive ticket, and P. C. Jensen, town of Farmington, defeated candidate in the race for assemblyman.

The expenses for the various candidates in the Republican party are Mrs. Alice Larkee, register of deeds, $37.35; George Brooks, register of deeds, $90.51; F. Reinke, register of deeds, $22.35; P. Behm register of deeds, $57.84; Waupaca county Republican club, $48; L. J. Stadler, treasurer, $50; W. L. Jones, sheriff, $37.83; L. J. Steiger, county clerk, $10.11; Paul Ovrom, clerk of court, $12.80; Julius Spearbraker, assemblyman, $3.00; J. K. Anderson, district attorney, $137.73; A. Don Zwickey, district attorney, $194.93.

Candidates of the Progressive ticket reported as follows: Delyle Ohmolt, district attorney, $44.25; Robert Ewald, county clerk, $12; T. Petersen, register of deeds, $4.75; M. Kleist, sheriff, $11.46; P. Johnson, treasurer, $1.25; R. Wright, sheriff, $47.65; A. Handrich, $31.50; County Progressive committee, $22.37; R. Anderson, assemblyman, $51.36 and H. The Spirit of London which makes some key Progressive somewhat pessimistic about the party's prospects this year is the contrast between the results of their fund raising efforts with those of enemy Republicans.

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — One of the factors

The state Republican party financial group has already reported collecting more than $100,000, with indications that the canvassing job is only about half completed. Progressives report wryly that their collection efforts were meeting with scant success before the primary, but that after the huge Republican vote recorded there, even the meagre contributions previously enjoyed took a sharp slump.

One of the reasons, of course, for the size of the Republican chest this year is the fact that under the Hatch act it has been found more expedient for the state and national Republican committees to raise funds together, and to allow the states greater expenditures. However, despite that factor, the Progressive financial resources are paltry by comparison. Even certain wealthy friends who have previously favored the LaFollette cause appear to have disappeared.

GOP UNITY

Although it seemed at one time not long ago that there would be some intramural fighting within the ranks, Republicans have managed to come thus far in the campaign without any serious quarrels which the public knows anything about.

There remains a conspicuous lack of harmony between Dr. F. L. Gullickson, state committee chairman, and Ted Baron, new national committeeman, but other figures within the party have pretty well arranged the campaign so that their quarrel will not impair activities or endanger organization morale. One noteworthy aspect of the Republican internal situation in Wisconsin today is the complete harmony between the Willkie clubs and the regular party machine, in contrast to some other states where regular party leaders have resented the interference of the self-organized volunteer workers.

Another important development in Republican politics this year has been the growth in influence of Republican county chairman. Organized for the specific objective of increasing their influence and prestige in state party policies, the county leaders seem to have come a long way toward realizing it. It is now likely that the county chairmen will have as important a place, in the conduct of the general election campaign than the state committee.

REACTION

The nip and tuck race between Willkie and Roosevelt in Wisconsin, as shown by the national polls, and the overwhelming superiority of the state Republican ticket's strength as shown in last week's primary balloting have occasioned some significant revisions of opinion among Wisconsin Republicans. Earlier in the summer Republican sages sometimes expressed the thought that Governor Heil's prospects for reelection were favorable because he would have the advantage of running in a presidential year, that the Republican presidential campaign would redound to his benefit.

Now you hear the predictions that the party's state ticket will win a resounding victory, but that Willkie and McNary will win narrowly, if they carry Wisconsin at all. And if they do, these party men

SKIN OIL

The schoolboy's shining morning face, the beaming countenance of budding womanhood and the brazen impression commonly associated with the balding man are more or less glandular—not the mysterious ductless glands this time, but the sebaceous glands that secrete sebum, skin oil.

Normal supply of sebum or skin oil not only keeps the skin (and the hair) in perfect condition and most pleasing appearance, but protects from irritants and prevents disease.

Excessive secretion of sebum, seborrhea, occurs chiefly in adolescence but is not uncommon in young and mature adults. Most authoritative medical works on dermatology devote from a page to a chapter to the etiology and pathology (cause and nature) of seborrhea and so reveal to the reader that the authors know no more than practitioners, plodding door-to-door peddlers know about it.

In many instances excessive oiliness of the skin is accompanied with some patches of skin inflammation (dermatitis) and scaling—this is variously called pityriasis, seborrheic eczema, seborrhea sicca, but the last name is more generally restricted to the condition on the scalp, which is familiar to every one as dry dandruff.

Dry dandruff is a comparatively late manifestation of simple seborrhea or excessive oiliness of the scalp.

In the first place excess skin oil may be removed by gently wiping the skin with soft tissue, cloth or cotton wet with alcohol, or an alcoholic lotion such as so-called with hazel extract or Cologne water or other perfumed spirit or toilet water. For removal of excess oil from a limited area, say the nose, carbolic tetrachloride is satisfactory, or plain benzene—when using either of these on face or scalp be sure to have free ventilation, and take a full breath and hold it for a while after the solvent is applied. Of course vigorous scrubbing with soap and warm water followed by rinsing with tepid and finally cold water, removes the grease or oil too, but at the same time stimulates the sebaceous glands to pour out more oil.

Sulfur and resorcin are the best local remedies for excessive oiliness, either of the skin or the scalp. When applying resorcin to the scalp, however, it must be remembered that it may temporarily stain gray, white or blond hair yellowish red, and this may be avoided by using a sulfur and salicylic acid mixture instead of sulfur and resorcin, the effect of salicylic acid being similar to that of resorcin.

Lotion, powder and pomade containing these remedial agents will be described later, or if you are in a hurry send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for pamphlets on "Acne" and "Dandruff."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Old Tinkers Still Uninformed

Have asked two doctors and both are against injection treatment. They think I should have an operation. My hernia is a small one of two years standing. (S. O.)

Answer—They are probably two old timers. On request, if you inclose stamped envelope bearing your address, I'll recommend a physician who is skilled in the ambulant (injection) method. Despite what uninformed practitioners or would-be surgeons think about it, in your place I should choose the injection treatment.

Urash Heep Hands

I don't think I am particularly nervous, but my hands are always moist or clammy and I'd like to find out the cause. (S. O.)

Answer—The strength of the Republican state ticket will turn the tide. Incidentally, Republican opinion is pretty uniform that Clausen's job against LaFollette will be tougher than that of Heil, principally because of Heil's divided opposition. It

(something to correct it. (Miss H. F. T.)

Answer—Apply the following lotion, just a few drops, to palms twice daily. Tannic acid one dram (teaspoonful) Alcohol two ounces (4 table-spoonfuls) Glycerin three drams Water three ounces (tablespoonfuls)

Cause for Divorce?

Right after marriage I found that my husband snored dreadfully all night. It annoys me so much that I can't sleep. (M. C. L.)

Answer—Alternatives for divorce: (1) Let him sleep in a room by him self insulated. (2) Take him to nose and throat specialist for treatment to tone up his Schneiderian membrane. (3) Let him adopt a better schedule of living habits to restore some of the vitality he has lost. (4) Send twenty-five cents coin and 1-cent stamped envelope bearing your address, for booklet "The Seven Keys to Vite."

Looking Backward

25 YEARS AGO

Friday, Oct. 1, 1915

It was officially reported that the French had made further progress by means of grenades on the German trenches in Artois district in Champagne. The German counter attack near Maisons de Compagne was checked.

Register of Deeds A. G. Koch received two or three cotton plants that morning from David Nottage who was then in Oklahoma. They blossomed en route.

Thieves had been busy at a cabbage patch owned by Harry Ames, stealing a few each night.

Three Appleton men, Edgar P. Schommer, Roy Woods and George Blusung, received certificates for embalming the previous day, having passed state board of health examinations.

10 YEARS AGO

Friday, Sept. 26, 1930

The backgammon craze which was spreading over the country, had not yet reached Appleton but it was expected that the game would take hold here before long.

George Bockley, secretary of the Appleton Building and Loan association, Thursday was elected president of the Wisconsin Building and Loan league at a LaCrosse convention.

An airport was to be established at Waupaca by the American Legion post.

Plane Battle Viewed Over London Area

indifferently was seen by authoritative military quarters today, in longer and more frequent—perhaps even nightly—British raids on Berlin.

The R.A.F., which raided Berlin four successive nights this week but last night, has not announced the new policy officially, but it has been put down as a "certainty" by some sources.

These quarters point out the R.A.F. is not neglecting the "invasion ports" across the channel, but the fact that air force feels it can deviate from a policy of concentrating almost exclusively on the German-held coast is taken as a sign of "growing confidence."

Military informants said the R.A.F. must feel it has battered the German barge concentrations sufficiently to allay the worry the concentrations caused a few weeks ago.

New secret devices with which to combat night raiders were reported today in use in the London area which last night had one of the lightest night raids in the three weeks since the air "blitz" began.

The devices were said to have been developed by British scientists. Observers declared there was a chance that, used together, two of the devices might make night bombing as hazardous as raiding by day.

There was no immediate indication whether the new weapons were responsible for the softening of the German blows on the capital, and there were no intimations of their nature.

In a gradual lifting of the curtain of censorship, however, British correspondents were permitted to comment upon these new air-raid noises heard by Londoners in the last few nights.

1. A heavy single explosion integrating into staccato cracks high up in the heavens.

2. A flat roar which seems to strike a ceiling several miles up and bounces its way clamorously along the top of the sky.

3. A muffled rattling like a "carpet slipper machine-gun."

"These queer noises to which Londoners have listened with increasing interest and speculation are in fact caused by new types of weapons, or by well-tried weapons adapted to new uses," said one observer.

He mentioned "another new weapon which makes very little noise except an odd rattle like the frou-frou of a taffeta gown."

given a noteworthy promotion to major general, skipping the intermediate grade of brigadier general.

The army already has 21 permanent major generals of the line and 50 brigadier generals, aside from 31 who hold one rank or the other temporarily as general staff officers. From the permanent generals are selected the chief of staff, who holds temporarily the rank of full general, and six temporary lieutenant generals.

A White House statement on the need of promotions said "the permanent general officers now authorized have all been assigned, and there are still a large number of major tactical units which lack commanders of appropriate rank."

"One territorial department, Puerto Rico, the armored corps, both of the new armored divisions, and eight of the new triangular infantry divisions are commanded by brigadier generals instead of major generals. None of these divisions has a brigade commander in the grade of brigadier general and the brigades are being commanded by colonels. The air force is being vastly expanded. It will require six major generals to command the four air districts in the continental United States, one in Hawaii, and one in Panama."

"The time and place of the speeches will be determined later. In all probability, one address will be at Madison at noon, dealing with the farm program, and will be broadcast over a complete Wisconsin network," Broughton said.

"Other points will depend on the itinerary planned. There likely will be an evening meeting at Milwaukee."

The assignment of Wallace for a day in Wisconsin was made at the request of the committeeman.

Willkie Offers 6-Point Program To Help Farmer

en's division of the state Republican party, and Mrs. Yvonne Towne of Waukesha, president of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's Republican Clubs.

National Committeeman Edward A. Bacon of Milwaukee and Mrs. Harry Thomas of Sheboygan, national committeewoman, planned to board the train at Dubuque, Iowa.

The speak will make no stops between Freeport and Madison. When it arrives here Willkie and his party will find a caravan of some 30 automobiles waiting.

The presidential candidate and Mrs. Willkie will ride in an open car, followed by members of the party and newspapermen, from the Illinois Central station to Capitol square, around the square and out State street, University avenue and Randall avenue to the fieldhouse.

With ideal weather promised, Republican leaders anticipated a rush for the available seats in the fieldhouse. The doors will be opened at 6 o'clock and will be closed when all the seats are taken. Since no tickets have been issued it will be a "first come, first served" proposition.

Parking space at the fieldhouse will be reserved for buses and automobiles bringing visiting delegations and several streets will be roped off to provide other parking facilities. Forty-five members of the state traffic patrol will assist Madison police in handling traffic.

Since this is the first week of school at the university, officials anticipated a large number of students would attend the rally.

With Willkie on the speaker's platform will be Governor Heil, members of the legislature, Republican candidates for office, members of the Willkie-McVary club of Wisconsin and prominent party leaders.

The presidential nominee will be introduced by Dean L. Christensen, of the university college of agriculture. He will speak for about a half hour. His address will not be broadcast but seven loudspeakers have been installed in the fieldhouse, with three others on the outside.

The rally will be reminiscent of the campaign of 1932 when former President Herbert Hoover spoke in the same building.

Wallace to Speak In State Oct. 22

Sheboygan—Henry A. Wallace, Democratic candidate for vice-president, will speak in Wisconsin Oct. 22, it was announced today by C. E. Broughton, national committeeman.

The time and place of the speeches will be determined later.

"In all probability, one address will be at Madison at noon, dealing with the farm program, and will be broadcast over a complete Wisconsin network," Broughton said.

"Other points will depend on the itinerary planned. There likely will be an evening meeting at Milwaukee."

GREETING IN CATTLE COUNTRY—A western atmosphere awaited Wendell Willkie, Republican presidential candidate, on his stop at Dickinson, N. D. Willkie, who was greeted by cattle country range riders and presented with a set of "WW" branding irons, is shaking hands with Mrs. Robert Reed of Dickinson.

thousands of men will be drafted. They will leave job vacancies. Every effort will be made to fit men who have served into the jobs vacated by men starting service. The idea is to dovetail jobs."

Clague said there still would be need for relief, WPA, NYA and similar projects and asserted that the public must not expect unemployment to be wiped out overnight.

Katharine F. Lenroot told the conference last night that the nation, if it wants unity of its people while building defenses, must solve pressing problems in the health and social needs of the people.

Miss Lenroot, formerly of Superior, Wis., is chief of the children's bureau of the department of labor.

Harold Groves, professor of economics at the University of Wisconsin, said better times and military expenditures would tend to reduce the demands for relief and other welfare expenditures, but cautioned that "an economy that is propped by war expenditures cannot lay much claim to stability."

Groves suggested that if Wisconsin would get away from deficits it should adopt any two of the following measures:

Broaden the income tax base; raise the rates and plug loopholes, as well as restore former inheritance taxes; tax cigars and cut tobacco; continue diversion of highway funds.

He recommended some property tax relief.

E. A. Willson of Bismarck, N. D., executive director of the North Dakota public welfare department, asserted that many tenant farmers of his state, South Dakota and Nebraska were ordered off their farms this fall by large land owners.

The owners, he said, are going into commercial farming on a large scale to obtain agricultural adjustment act cash benefits. Holders of 3,000 and 4,000-acre tracts can obtain AAA benefits reaching a maximum per farm of $10,000, he declared.

Willson said many of the tenants were moving into towns and going on relief.

"We need rapid action by the government to limit AAA benefits to single farm operators and to discourage commercial farming while encouraging small farms," Willson said.

Lillge Company Will Build 'Y' Sidewalks

Von Ribbentrop said the intention of the signatory powers was to "seek peace and not war."

"The contractors will sincerely and gratefully appreciate the collaboration of any nation that wishes to aid them in the creation of a new order in Europe and the great Asiatic region," the German foreign minister said.

Count Ciano, in Italian, made an address similar in tone to Von Ribbentrop's.

Ambassador Kurusu made a declaration on behalf of his government, also speaking in his mother tongue.

After these addresses Fuehrer Hitler formally shook hands with Count Ciano, Kurusu and Von Ribbentrop and left the hall.

Ciano said the treaty "confirms by a solemn pledge of political, economic and military cooperation the communion of interest and aims existing between these three countries during recent years in which a new history of the world was being forged."

"In the magnificent work of regeneration," he declared, "our three nations have constantly encountered the same sinister and stubborn resistance, the same unwillingness to understand and the same hostility."

"They all three had to breathe in order to live, they all needed work for their sons and space for their peoples."

"This breath, this space and this work has been refused them by those mighty empires who, have monopolized the resources of the world, intended to deny to these nations those elementary and vital requirements which are their most crying need."

"These three powers have no intention of challenging or threatening anyone."

"Their pact, as confirmed by today's treaty, aims at preventing any unnecessary extension of the present conflict and represents, together with the bloc ensuing from the union of military and civil forces of our three empires, an insurmountable rampart that will shatter every attempt to spread the conflict beyond the present confines," Ciano said.

The text of the pact was read to the assembled correspondents by minister Schmidt, chief of the foreign press section.

The six points were:

"1. Japan recognizes and respects Germany's and Italy's leadership in creating a new order in Europe."

"2. Germany and Italy recognize and respect Japan's leadership in the Asiatic region."

"These three powers have no intention of challenging or threatening anyone."

"Their pact, as confirmed by today's treaty, aims at preventing any unnecessary extension of the present conflict and represents, together with the bloc ensuing from the union of military and civil forces of our three empires, an insurmountable rampart that will shatter every attempt to spread the conflict beyond the present confines," Ciano said.

The text of the pact was read to the assembled correspondents by minister Schmidt, chief of the foreign press section.

The six points were:

"1. Japan recognizes and respects Germany's and Italy's leadership in creating a new order in Europe."

"2. Germany and Italy recognize and respect Japan's leadership in the Asiatic region."

Appleton Parishes to Join In Celebration of Bishop's Silver Anniversary Sunday

The four Catholic parishes of Appleton will join with others in the Green Bay diocese Sunday in commemorating the silver jubilee of the Most Rev. Paul P. Rhode, D. D., as bishop of Green Bay. In commemoration of his twenty-fifth anniversary as bishop, masses of thanksgiving will be offered in all of the churches, and upon special request of the bishop all Catholics in the diocese have been asked to offer prayers of thanksgiving and to receive holy communion for his intention. The papal blessing with plenary indulgence, granted to Bishop Rhode by His Holiness Pope Pius XII, will be imparted to all the faithful of the diocese.

In a letter from the jubilee committee read in Catholic churches last Sunday, mention was made of the fact that Bishop Rhode has completed his twenty-fifth year in the diocese and also of the seven months' illness which seriously impaired the bishop's eyesight and from which he is just recovering.

"The bishop hopes very soon to be able to carry on, as before, the full burden of his work," the letter stated. It also urged participation in the celebration in a spiritual way and also through contribution to raise a purse for presentation to the bishop.

Bishop Rhode will celebrate a pontifical high mass at 10 o'clock on the morning of Tuesday, Oct. 8, at St. Francis Xavier Cathedral in Green Bay in the formal celebration. There will be a dinner in his honor in the main auditorium of the Columbus Community club at which the diocesan clergy and visiting prelates will be guests.

Knights to Attend
F. J. Sensenbrenner, Knight of St. Gregory, Neenah, and Gustave Keller, Knight of St. Gregory, Appleton, will attend the bishop in the procession and in the sanctuary that morning as papal knights, a title conferred upon them for outstanding achievement in the cause of Christian faith.

Bishop Rhode was born in Wejherow, Poland, Sept. 18, 1871, and when he was seven years old he and his mother came to America and settled in Chicago. He was educated at St. Stanislaus parish school, Chicago, received a classical foundation at St. Ignace college there and at St. Mary's college in Kentucky, and completed his theological studies at St. Francis seminary in Milwaukee. He was ordained to the priesthood June 17, 1894, at St. Francis seminary and served as assistant pastor at St. Adelbert's parish, Chicago, from 1894 to 1895 when he became pastor of St. Peter and Paul's parish, Chicago. In 1897 he was appointed pastor of St. Michael's parish, South Chicago, and in 1908 while serving as pastor there he was appointed auxiliary bishop of Chicago and titular bishop of Barca by Pope Pius X. He was consecrated bishop by Archbishop James E. Quigley of Chicago.

On July 5, 1915, he was appointed bishop of Green Bay by Pope Benedict XV and took possession of the see on Sept. 29, 1915, just 25 years ago this Sunday.

Among Bishop Rhode's achievements were the organization of the Green Bay Apostolate, Catholic welfare agency; the inauguration of the diocesan summer school for sisters at St. Norbert college; the purchase of the Guardian Angel boarding school at Oneida for children whose homes are in localities where no parish school exists; the foundation of the Crippled Children's school at Robinsonville; the establishment of the office of Associated Diocesan societies; the modernization and enlargement of St. Joseph Orphan asylum at Green Bay; establishment of the McCormick Memorial home for the aged at Green Bay; Catholic Girls camp at Loon lake; reorganization of the Leo Benevolent association for retired priests; and the erection of a large diocesan office building in Green Bay to serve as headquarters of the Catholic bureaus and agencies in the diocese.

Vincent Astor, Mary B. Cushing Wed in New York

East Hampton, N. Y.—(AP)—Vincent Astor, multimillionaire yachtsman, real estate operator and son of one of New York's first families, was married today to Mary B. Cushing, daughter of Mrs. Harvey Cushing.

The bride's father, who died last October, was one of the country's most outstanding brain specialists. Miss Cushing is a sister of the former Mrs. James Roosevelt.

Twenty-two days ago at Cody, Wyo., Astor was divorced by his wife of 28 years, Mrs. Helen Dinsmore Astor, on grounds of mental cruelty. A secret property settlement was made out of court.

Astor, who inherited a $75,000,000 fortune, is a great-grandson of John Jacob Astor, from whose fur-trading business the family wealth grew.

He is a personal friend of President Roosevelt and has been active in movements to eliminate Manhattan slums, replacing them with modern buildings.

An intimate of royalty, Astor has moved in international society for many years. He is a director in numerous corporations and banks, and the holder of large blocks of real estate, including the $5,000,000 St. Regis hotel in Manhattan.

His home is at Rhinebeck, N. Y., where he met his first wife, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dinsmore Huntington.

Although Mrs. Astor has lived in New York city for several years, her mother has maintained her residence in New Haven, Conn., since the death of her husband.

During the summer, the Cushing lived in Heather Dunes, East Hampton, where Mrs. Cushing will remain until early next month.

Another sister of the bride, Miss Barbara Cushing, was married here last Saturday to Stanley Mortimer, Jr., New York and Tuxedo Park socialite.

Circle Will Hold 'Spinster Spree' at Castle Hall Tonight

A "Spinster Spree" similar to the one held last winter will be given by the Little Women's circle of King's Daughters tonight at Castle hall. Taking its name from the fact that the girls will entertain their boy friends at the event, the party will feature ladies' choice dances. The girls will call for their "dates" and taken them to the dance as well as offer the courtesies usually accorded the feminine contingent by their escorts.

The dance which will be informal is being held instead of the roller skating party originally planned for tonight. Miss Billie Kolb and Miss Margaret Lally are co-chairmen of the date and place committee. Miss Ann Smith has charge of publicity and Miss Florence Schaefer is ticket chairman.

Puzzles to Aid Church Mixer Plan

Jigsaw puzzles in which each member of Memorial Presbyterian church will have its place will be worked out at the neighborhood group meetings which will be held next week in the homes of members residing in various parts of Appleton. When the group meetings are held each member, as he arrives, will fit his piece into the puzzle, thereby making a complete map of that section of town.

Here is the procedure for carrying out the plan: One of the church officers will call on each member within a few days and invite him to attend a meeting of his group. The officer will give each member a uniquely shaped cardboard piece, a part of a jigsaw puzzle map of Appleton, on which will be a spot and a number representing the church member and his home. When these pieces are put together at the group meeting, they form an entire section of Appleton.

The real purpose of the group meetings and their attendant puzzle feature is to help the church members get acquainted.

The dates and places of the group meetings will be as follows: Monday, Sept. 30, W. R. Wieschendorf, 614 E. Parkway boulevard; Paul V. Cary, 219 S. Rankin street; Wednesday, Oct. 2, James E. Danielson, 313 S. Outagamie street; E. John Goodrich, 1210 W. Winnebago street; Thursday, Oct. 3, Ben J. Rohan, 311 W. Spring street; R. L. Dickinson, 822 E. Winnebago street; Friday, Oct. 4, Fred A. Semmelhack, 1701 N. Harrison street; Glen E. Pelton, 939 E. Washington street.

Prairie du Chien in Move to Buy Bridge

Prairie du Chien—Steps toward the city's purchase of the interstate bridge across the Mississippi river between Prairie du Chien, Wis., and Marquette, Iowa, were taken by the Prairie du Chien common council last night.

By a vote of 7 to 1, the council authorized city officials to appear before the public service commission and enter into an agreement with the Prairie du Chien-Marquette bridge company for the purchase.

The city plans to reduce bridge tolls 22 per cent if the purchase is approved by the commission, it was announced.

Prairie du Chien voters rejected the proposal by a small margin at a referendum held during the primary election.

County Board Recalls Asylum Building Bonds

Plan Is Designed To Effect Savings In Interest Payments

The county board this morning authorized the recall of outstanding asylum building bonds of $866,000 on Nov. 1. The county will pay the sum from the general fund and the board will not decide until the November session whether to issue new bonds.

A representative of an investment company, who offered to buy up the bonds at a lower interest rate than the 3 per cent the county has been paying, said that under the recall plan the county could save up to $16,000.

In recalling the bonds, the county must pay a half of one per cent on them, an amount totaling $330. Should the county decide against issuing new bonds, the county asylum would pay the county $3,000 a year on the principal. The county pays the interest on the bond issue so the interest payments would be the same. Senator Mike Mack, board chairman, said that the county has sufficient funds at the present time to pay off the bonds.

The board accepted, with a rising vote, an invitation of the American Legion National Guard, Relations committee to attend a mass meeting Oct. 10 called to show the appreciation of citizens to the guard for its answer to the call for a year's military training. A parade will be held and board members will march in a body.

A resolution was adopted which limits the sale of county owned tax certificates, preventing investment companies from purchasing the desirable certificates.

Although no action was taken board members discussed opening the November session earlier than Nov. 12 so it could be completed before the opening of deer season. A number of supervisors were of the opinion that the fall business could be transacted within nine days, which would eliminate the necessity of convening early.

Former Governor Raps Republican 'Slush Fund'

Green Lake—(P)—Campaigning on behalf of the Progressive ticket, former Governor Philip F. LaFollette declared in a speech here last night the Republicans have raised a big "slush fund" to continue their party in power.

He said the Republican committee alone raised $110,000 and admitted that $250,000 would be spent on this year's campaign.

He contended no party "with a genuine program and a sincere message needs a quarter of a million dollars."

"It is not difficult to understand why there are so many $1,000 contributions to the Republican campaign chest," he said. "Some of our richest industrialists are only too eager to finance an administration which has handed special privilege interests nearly $4,000,000 in tax favors, while placing $7,000,000 in new tax burdens upon those with small and moderate incomes."

O'Konsky Planning to Answer Phil's Talks
Madison—(P)—Alvin E. O'Konsky, unsuccessful candidate for lieutenant governor in the primary election, announced here today he would campaign for the Republican ticket in all counties where former Governor Philip LaFollette speaks for the Progressives.

Recalling he had followed the same procedure in 1938, O'Konsky said, "I again will answer all of Phil LaFollette's speeches in the same counties during the same week he appears."

White Tail Deer Increase In Chain o' Lakes Region

Waupaca—The chain o'lakes are getting wilder. White tail deer are on the comeback. The Wisconsin Conservation Commission, backed by reports of local hunters and fishermen, is authority for the reports that wild game is returning to this community in greater numbers.

The Virginia white tail deer, for instance, which formerly lived in only northern Wisconsin, is ranging farther south each year. The heaviest deer herds, in fact, are really south of Waupaca county in the sand barrens of central Wisconsin.

With much of the Waupaca and Waushara farm properties reverting to brush and woodland, it is becoming the usual thing to see one or more deer grazing through the oat fields, nipping at the pastures and mingling with the cows. John Montgomery, living on Highway 22 near the Wisconsin Veterans' Home, recently reported seeing two deer emerge from a grove of trees back of his farm buildings and leisurely go from field to field. He believes that both were mature does although he was not close enough to judge their age further than that they were not fawns.

George Born and George Spraka, members of the Home, had a boat race with a six point buck across Long lake the other morning. After sighting the deer's antlers they sped up their motorboat and went alongside the startled creature which was swimming faster than a man could row a boat, meantime casting wild glances at its strange companions. Reaching shore the deer flipped its white tail and disappeared into the woods near Emersons creek.

Mrs. Royal Anderson, who lives near Sunset lake, three miles from the city limits of Waupaca, reports seeing a deer run across her farm land a week ago and residents of Fern Terrace on Round lake, report a deer roaming through the woods at that point.

Vincent Skiffing, a Wisconsin Veterans' Home resident who is now conservation warden of nearby Wood county, reports that cars and trains are playing havoc with deer in that county.

In one month this summer 11 were killed, 7 by autoists and 4 by trains. The accidents resulted, he conjectured in the animals ranging farther from their usual haunts in a search for green forage. The kill included three does carrying fawns, three bucks, one fawn buck and four fawn does.

The deer pen at the Veterans' Home is proving an ever increasing attraction. Started two years ago by Colonel C. L. Brosius, utility officer, the "herd" consisted of two does and one buck. Latest census reports indicate quite an increase in population, for the herd now contains ten deer, four of them new arrivals this year.

Because of the additional work in caring for the young, two young bucks were sent to the state game farm at Poyette and eventually the herd will be cut to nearer its original number.

Truck Is in the Middle When One Cop Meets Another

What happens when cop meets truck meets cop was demonstrated at the corner of Morrison and Winnebago streets about 9:40 Thursday morning.

Norbert Marx, an Appleton policeman was motoring west on Winnebago street and Bradford Doering, was driving the truck south on Morrison street when the two vehicles collided. The Marx machine cartmored off the truck into the path of a car being driven north on Morrison street by Jack Frenz, Outagamie county patrolman. And there they were. The Frenz machine was slightly damaged, the Marx car was wrecked and the truck came off a poor third, having hit a tree in the mixup.

Both Doering and Marx suffered slight injuries.

Stamp Plan Goes Only to Counties, City Informed

Appleton's Request For Food System May Be Under County Plan

A letter from Paul H. Jordan, regional director of the Surplus Marketing administration, today informed city officials that the federal food stamp plan for those receiving relief aids, is being operated only in entire county areas.

Jordan sent new questionnaires on the economic and welfare conditions in Outagamie county and suggested that the city turn it over to welfare officials. He said this would be necessary to bring the Outagamie county files up to date.

The city applied for the plan last March but there has been no action since. Jordan explained that considerable time is necessary to formulate plans for an unofficial fact-finding survey in any particular area. He said his office is working on the request from Appleton.

Officials in Appleton now are not sure whether the government will give the plan to the city only and if the plan went to the county, are doubtful about operating under a joint system.

Letters were received yesterday from Joshua L. Johns and Alexander Wiley, Wisconsin congressmen, who wrote that they would contact the department of agriculture to help the city get the food plan installed.

Under the plan, eligible families are given an opportunity to buy orange-colored food stamps and to receive free blue stamps in the ratio of 50 cents worth for each dollar's worth of orange stamps.

The stamps are presented at local stores where surplus commodities also may be purchased. Surplus foods now are distributed at relief centers.

U. S. and Fliers in Dispute Over Government Regulations

BY DEVON FRANCIS
New York—(P)—A tussle between the federal government and fliers over the degree of control to be exercised over both airline and non-scheduled operations promises to have profound repercussions on American aviation during the next few months.

Under advisement in the federal court here is a petition by the civil aeronautics board, the government agency which regulates all types of flying, for an injunction to restrain Canadian Colonial Airways from operating a service without a "route certificate" between New York and Niagara Falls.

The case has been heard. The pros and cons have been submitted. There remains only the court's ruling. Basically, the question resolves itself into differences between two self-opposed schools of government philosophy: close supervision, or a minimum amount of supervision, by official Washington for the greatest common good.

Long-Term Controversy
Practically, the result will be reflected in the nature of the growth of both airline and private flying activity in the United States for many years to come.

The argument, of long standing, was brought to a head by the establishment of the airline route between New York and Niagara Falls by Sigmund Janas, one time newspaperman who is president of Canadian Colonial Airways.

Janas insists the government agency has no say in the matter if he wants to set up an airline operating within the borders of New York state and not in interstate operation to supplement other services he runs through New England into Canada. His interstate and international operations are authorized by the board.

The board argues that Janas cannot institute an intra-state route without its authority because passengers carried by Canadian Colonial in some instances will travel beyond the borders of this state and are therefore patrons of an interstate operation.

Closely linked with Janas' argument with the board is a long-continued fight which private fliers have waged in Washington against what they call "undue interference" with non-scheduled flying.

Strong Control
The government holds a tight rein on all forms of flying. In theory a private flier can operate an airplane without a license from the board so long as he remains within any one state and off a federal airway. In practice it is almost impossible for him to fly without crossing a federal "control zone," one of the wide bands of airway which criss-cross the United States.

The Private Fliers association, a group fighting such regulations, argues that a pilot has a right to fly as he pleases over uninhabited areas, and to kill himself if he wants to, without authority from the government.

The board's case for regulation is based on the belief that, being what it is, flying must have close regulation. In congested centers planes already are running out of "air space," and regulation—the board's contention runs—is necessary to safe operation.

New London—A variety of reading matter is offered in the new volumes released for circulation at the New London Public Library this week.

Dr. Hans Zinsser, who died only a few weeks ago, leaves an autobiography written with the robust humor of a strong and unconventional spirit. "As I Remember Him" is a collection of "Rats, Lice and History."

Charles Allen Smart's idea of a Utopia is embodied in his book, "Roscommon" in which he describes a model community whose members lead a life so full and happy as to make most readers envious.

Della Lutes who blended realism and reminiscence in "The Country Kitchen" and "Home Groves," now presents a vivid picture of life in a southern Michigan town a century ago in "Gabriel's Search."

A mystery and a flavormore yarn at Cape Cod is offered in "Out of the Fog" by Joseph C. Lincoln, netted for his Cape Cod stories. A new wrinkle in detective yarns is Richard Bull's "My Own Murderer."

For readers who like to test their wits on radio quiz programs a new book, "American History Quiz Book," has been produced to answer some 900 frequently asked questions.

Johnson Criticizes Stimson For Delaying Defense Efforts

Washington, D. C.—There is something smelly in the war department. Part of it is too many Harrys. Because Harry Woodring wouldn't agree with Morgenthau on a restrictive tax policy that paralyzed airplane and other production for about eight months, he had to wait the plank.

In his place came another Harry—Wrong-Horse Harry Stimson. He came apparently because he had just made an all-out interventionist speech proposing something seriously close to a war alliance with England. At least, he proposed the joint use of naval and air bases which would, for all practical purposes, make us a belligerent in this war.

Certainly he didn't come to speed defense on the real front of the battle of America—which is, at the moment, the industrial front. Nobody can argue that because that would require a dynamic figure—a man who knows something about that job. Wrong-Horse Harry not only doesn't know anything about it, but he is about as dynamic as a shelled oyster. He is too feeble to work more than three hours a day and too old to make even that many decisions a day.

When he came, the assistant secretary of war was by law, charged, under the secretary's direction, with making plans and preparations for our present two great tasks—industrial and man power mobilization. A system for this had been under study and discussion for many years.

The assistant secretary, Mr. Louis Johnson, after many false starts and the work for which he will claim the credit.

That is the way preparations for national defense are being conducted. It is enough to turn the stomach of a cast-iron setter pup.

Mr. Stimson's first official act was to demand Mr. Johnson's official head on a silver salver. He wanted his own man. That fratricidal request was granted and, regardless of its disconcerting—not to say paralyzing—effect on the battle of America, Mr. Stimson brought in his own man, Judge Patterson.

Bad as this helter-skelter playing of ducks and drakes with national defense might have been in 99 out of 100 cases, it turned out that Judge Patterson was just the kind of guy who could overcome the handicap of such reckless monkey-business.

Then He Balked on Selection of Gullion

He was a soldier himself and a common sense administrator. In confidence, he corralled the concordance of everybody involved, army, industry, public. Then something happened. The president wisely decided to appoint Judge Advocate General Gullion—a natural—to conduct the selective service draft. Wrong-Horse Harry balked over Gullion would be appointed "over his dead body." He wanted Colonel Hershey, whom Gullion intended to use as his deputy. There is nothing the matter with Hershey. Together, he and Gullion would have been the most perfect team in America. Alone and next to Gullion, Hershey would be the best selection. That isn't the point. The point is the "test, crochety petulance of one, stubborn, feeble, old man and his selection of secretary of war in this crisis.

In the meantime, the selection of a draft administrator is deferred, "pending agreements," when such direction is needed—tragically. Also, all these matters are to be taken away from Mr. Stimson's own hand-picked assistant secretary Patterson—who was going to town. A new and unknown under-secretary is to be appointed and the secretary himself is to conduct the first phase—industrial and man power mobilization—of the battle of America. Of course, he couldn't adequately conduct anything. It is just a question of what direction his new whom takes in selecting a man to do

The World of STAMPS

Recent issues of Chinese stamps show a portrait of Sun Yat Sen, first president and founder of the Chinese Republic.

The set includes five values, two light green, one blue, one light orange. Everyone knows Dr. Sun was the George Washington of China. Not so many know he was a reformer who advocated western ideas, a visitor to the United States in 1911, and a man who successfully carried out a peaceful revolution, and the political godfather of Chiang Kai-shek.

He died at Peking in 1925. Commemoratives celebrating the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Commonwealth of Liberia arrived in this country in a set of three.

The blue three-cent shows sailboats in a harbor. Inscription beneath the picture reads "American colonization society, New York society, Pennsylvania society, Mississippi society." Dates 1839-1939 are printed at the top. "Republic of Liberia" appears fan-wise across the top of the three stamps. The green ten-cent shows Buchanan's residence, Bassa Cove. An inset reproduces an oval portrait of Thomas Buchanan.

The light brown stamp shows the seal of the republic, flags and scenes from the country. It is a five-cent stamp.

Must Take Inventory of Self Before Seeking Job

BY DOROTHY DIX
Dear Miss Dix—I am a girl 19 years old. Recently graduated from high school. I must go to work to support myself, as my father gets a small salary and we have a big family. What advice can you give me? LALLA.

Well, Lalla, my first piece of advice is to urge you to try to find out what nature intended you to do. Perhaps you haven't any great talent, but you are sure to have certain aptitudes, things for which you have a "turn" for doing. Maybe you have a head for figures and always got the highest mark in mathematics in school. Maybe you are handy with the needle and can take a wisp of velvet and a bunch of flowers from the 10-cent store and turn them into a hat that looks like a Paris confection. Maybe you can put on a hand-me-down from the bargain basement and make it look like a million dollars by the way you wear it. Maybe you have a way with children so all the kids in the neighborhood follow you wherever you go. Maybe, as the old Negro cook says, you have only to pass your hand over the pot on the stove to make the stew in it turn into a ragout that will whet the appetite of a gourmet.

You have never thought of any of these little characteristics being worth noticing. You and your family have just thought of them as Lalla's ways. But when you come to decide on your life work they are vitally important because they point the way to the career that you should follow. For none of us ever do any real work, unless we are doing the thing we like to do, the thing we are interested in doing, the thing we do as a pleasure instead of a task. If you have to do something that bores you and rubs you wrong somehow, you can't put any heart interest in it. And the minute you do your stint you put it out of your mind and forget it.

But if your work is something that you enjoy doing and that you have skill and pride in doing, you don't count the hours you put in on it. When you have done your day's work you carry it subconsciously in your mind and you are always thinking about how to improve your technique and new and better ways of doing it.

Don't lower your efficiency by slacking off at night at parties and coming to work so sleepy and tired you make all sorts of blunders. Don't wear the clothes and do the things that will make you ill so that you lose time. Executives soon find they are without girls who are always on the sick list.

And forget the Boy Friend while you are at work. Because you have quarreled with him is no reason for snapping a customer's head off and giving her blue ribbon when she asks for green. Love dreams and business don't mix. Keep them separated. And don't forget that after you break up with Tom you will be awfully glad you didn't lose your good job on his account.

Dear Miss Dix—Personality plus. That's us. We are three boys whose girl friends have been taken away from us and we want to get them back. Will you tell us what tactics we should use to bring them humbly to our feet? DYNAMITE.

Answer: I should say you would only have to use that marvelous personality that you possess. Surely no girl could resist it. But I feel it my duty to warn you that the modern girl thinks quite well of herself and that you will have to turn on the full battery of your charms to make her come humbly back to you.

It is just a Bridge of Sighs over which she has to pass from the schoolroom to the altar. So she feels that any sort of slipshod work will do and that it isn't worth bothering about putting any serious thought or effort into it.

Now, maybe you will marry and you won't. In these days it is by no means a foregone conclusion that every girl will get a husband, nor is it certain that even if she gets a husband that he will be able to support her.

The number of working wives is continually on the increase. And it may well happen that you will not only have to support yourself, but a husband and children. So prepare yourself for the worst, even if the best should happen to you.

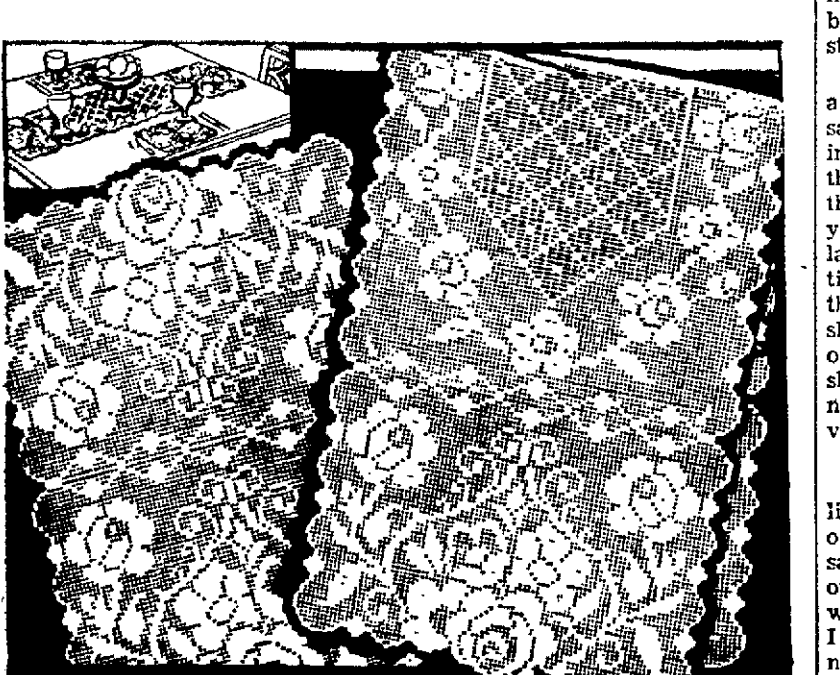

And never forget even for a moment that you are going to write your own price tag, and in the end what you will find in your pay envelope will be just exactly what you rate in efficiency.

It isn't luck that raises a cash girl up to the management of a department in a big store. It is hard, grim, intelligent work. It isn't chance that keeps one girl in the outer office at a meager wage, while another becomes "our invaluable Miss Smith," who is private secretary to the president.

One woman gets a hundred dollars for making a dress, another one gets three. One woman is a ten-thousand-dollar-a-year chef, another is a ten-dollar-a-week cook. Decide which you are going to be. It is up to you.

Make Business of Business
And make a business of business. By that I mean give your thoughts and your time and your interest to your work during working hours instead of devoting one lobe of your brain to your job and the balance

Merit of Bid Depends on One's Skill

BY ELY CULBERTSON

Determining the merit of a final contract is a difficult matter because many factors have to be taken into consideration. Naturally, the cards are of greatest importance, but the skill of the declarer and of the defenders must also be weighed.

An expert bids a grand slam whenever he thinks the odds favor success by about three to one. Against bid players he shades that to about two to one, but an expert finds three-to-one chances where the average player sees only an even chance. So, what would be a good contract for an expert may be a risky one for an average player. Take as an example today's hand:

South, dealer. Neither side vulnerable.

NORTH		EAST
♠ A K 10 5		♠ Q 8 4
♥ 7 3		♥ 9 5
♦ Q J 10		♦ 9 7 5 2
♣ 9 5		♣ K 6 3 2

SOUTH
♥ K Q J 10 6 2
♦ A K
♣ A 8

The bidding:
South West North East
1 heart Pass 2 spades Pass
3 hearts Pass 4 hearts Pass
4 no trump Pass 5 no trump Pass
7 hearts Pass Pass Pass

That is the way the hand was bid when dealt to four nonexpert players. South should have contented himself with bidding a small slam to allow for an error.

West opened the queen of clubs and South thought things over. He decided to discard his low club on dummy's queen of diamonds and then bank everything on the spade finesse. When that failed, he said philosophically: "Serve me right for bidding a grand slam on a finesse."

Much as declarer was to be commended for his stoicism, he did not show up very well as an analyst. The spade finesse had nothing to do with his grand slam!

Here is how an expert would play the hand. After winning the ace of clubs, the king and queen of hearts would be laid down, followed by the high diamonds. Then the top spades would be cashed and declarer's last spade discarded on the diamond queen. A spade ruff would establish the suit with the ace of hearts as entry. Only then would the losing club be discarded.

By that line of play declarer would make the slam if the spade queen dropped singleton or doubleton, if the suit broke 3-2, or if East had four or five spades headed by the queen. And if East failed to follow on the first round, South could still discard a club on the diamond queen and return to his hand for the spade finesse. Once trumps broke 2-2, declarer had a five to one chance. Quite a lot better than a finesse.

TODAY'S HAND.
North, dealer. North-South vulnerable.

A Little Variety in Expressing Thanks

Dear Mrs. Post: Are bread and butter letters necessary, or even suitable, to send to the same hostess week after week? I go to my fiancée's house every week end, and it does seem overdone to write a letter to his mother after I get back every Monday. Is there some other way that I could say thanks—perhaps not quite so conventionally, but more suitably under the circumstances?

Answer: I think to have to read a bread and butter letter from the same person every Tuesday morning might prompt this hostess to think, "And now what will she say this time?" In other words, unless you believe your future mother-in-law really wants you to write each time—and some people do—I should think you might ask her whether she can bear reading the sameness of your Tuesday morning letters. If she says she likes them, then you needn't worry about their lack of variety.

An Exception to the Rule

Dear Mrs. Post: Mother is an invalid and I never, or very seldom, go out except when absolutely necessary. We have two new families in our neighborhood and ordinarily I would go to pay a visit on each, but I don't want to begin it as I have no time to keep up social amenities like this. Mother is a lovely person and very interested in everything and likes to see people, but she is paralyzed and is quite helpless alone. Would it be permissible to explain this to the newcomers and ask them to come to see us instead?

Answer: Of course it would! Or, in fact, instead of going the first time, you might explain why you can't go to see them, and ask them if they

Beauty and You

The short woman who has allowed herself to grow overweight must keep her figure inconspicuous (until she slims through diet and exercise) by dressing with care and knowing which lines, as well as fabrics, tend to normalize her proportions.

For instance the short stocky woman should never select any striking design in material, bulky weaves, satiny surfaces, or long-haired fabrics. For her (if she desires to look chic and slimmer) are the sheer woolsens, the firmly woven crepes, swede-like heavier materials for coats and suits, and plain velvets with a light-absorbing pile. Silk prints should be of indistinct design and only semi-sheer. All jersey is problematical for jersey clings.

Simplicity of design is the next precaution she must learn. To quote a fashion authority on this: "The short, heavy woman should be careful to avoid adding bulk at the sides of her figure. Wide sleeves, large bows placed on shoulders or hips, heavy drapes and bulky fabrics will make her figure seem shorter and heavier. A few simple lines extending the length of the figure are better."

This figure type should never permit color contrasts or other breaks to form horizontal lines. Coats should always be worn full length. Hat and shoes should continue rather than contrast the color of dress or coat.

Gain Height This Way
Interest centered high on the figure adds to apparent height. The short-stocky woman should choose a neck treatment and a hat that draw the eyes of others upward.

V-necklines create the illusion of length so they should be emphasized by contrasting color or elaborate detail such as embroidery or striking necklines. Her neck should never be covered for that makes her look heavy.

In fact the V-line is an excellent one to concentrate upon, as V seams tend to elongate the figure and an inverted V in a hat shape can add several inches to one's appearance.

Detail Suggestions
Here are a few guiding principles selecting attractive costumes which the short, stocky woman or girl should follow.

Avoid yokes in dresses, the unbroken line is better.

Wear belts the same color as dresses or coats.

Avoid all horizontal lines in material design and dress styling.

Do not select too dainty lingerie touches.

Wear few accessories and those should be carefully chosen.

Turbans with a high drape are usually becoming to this figure type.

Brims of moderate size worn irregularly (up on one side and down on the other) are becoming for casual wear.

Hat should be same color as costume, with little or no trimming contrast.

Dresses which do not fit too snugly are most flattering.

The princess silhouette (not too well fitted) makes the figure look taller. The interest should center around neckline.

Shoes should be smart but not conspicuous.

The deeper tans of hose should be worn.

SLIM TO BEAUTY by scientific schedule. Send ten cents in coin for Miss Lindsay's new slimming booklet giving a two-week program for effective reducing. Address Post Office Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

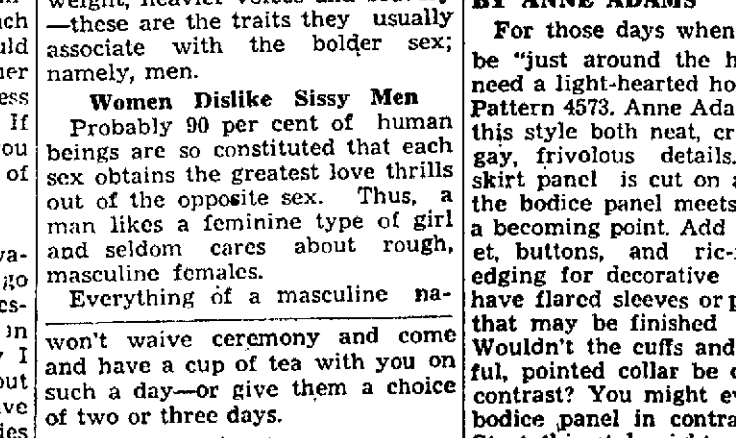

ture, therefore, which a woman adopts becomes a hazard to her maximum charm. Since slang and tobacco, alcohol and risqué stories, rough skins and harsh speech, profanity and trousers, are regarded as masculine attributes and custom, their use by the female sex is very dangerous.

Sometimes an unusually attractive girl has so much charm she can still hold a man despite the adoption of some of these masculinizing items, but she is needlessly jeopardizing her chances. It doesn't pay to throw away your ace cards and trumps when you are playing the great game of love.

Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing or printing costs when you seek personal advice or one of his psychological charts.

Crisp Dress

BY ANNE ADAMS
For those days when you plan to be "just around the house," you'll need a light-hearted housefrolic like Pattern 4573. Anne Adams has given this style both neat, crisp lines and gay, frivolous details. The center skirt panel is cut on a smart bias; the bodice panel meets the skirt in a becoming point. Add a patch pocket, buttons, and ric-rac or ruffle edging for decorative effect. And have flared sleeves or puffed sleeves that may be finished off by cuffs. Wouldn't the cuffs and the delightful, pointed collar be decorative in contrast? You might even have the bodice panel in contrast to match. Start this style right away!

Pattern 4573 is available in misses' and women's sizes 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32 and 34. Size 36 takes 41 yards 35 inch fabric, 1 yard of contrast and 2 1/2 yards ruffling.

Tidy and Convenient Play Place Makes Life Easier

BY ANGELO PATRI

Children ought to be trained to keep their things in their places, to put away their toys when they are through with them. That means that a place has been provided for the purpose, and that the children can use it easily.

I saw a play closet that was two flights of stairs away from any play place. Naturally it was not used. A place under the front stairs, even in the stairs, a shelf low down and close at hand, perhaps in their own rooms, could be used. Hooks for clothes should be placed low enough for children to reach without help. If they are too high the clothes will be on the floor.

When little children play about the floor it is best to allow them one or at most, two bits of play equipment at a time. More than that will be scattered about the floor and when picking-up time comes there will be too much for the tired child to do. That will bring on a scene that will do nobody any good.

When a child has a box of blocks watch to see that he does not take out another set of toys with many pieces. One box of blocks and a fleet of automobiles and a box of toy figures scattered about the floor will make things impossible. Blocks and a toy of one piece are better. That will avoid creating the situation that so often results in a tantrum.

When a child is tired help him put away his things. Say, "Come along. We'll get these put away now," and if you have to do most of the work don't mention it.

Next time stop the play a bit earlier, see that fewer pieces are about, and the child will be able to do better.

If there is no place for the child to play but the living room where guests must sit, it cannot be helped. He must play there, and the best one can do is to limit him to a reasonable number of toys. A playroom is preferable.

If he is building he can leave his uncompleted work as it is and start again next day, and the disorder will bother nobody.

Hang Things First
If children are taught to go directly to the place where they hang their coats and hats, take off their rubbers and mittens, and store them, instead of heading for the living room or the kitchen first, a lot of bother will be saved. There will be far less picking up to do and fewer lost things to search for in the morning.

The children who are old enough to attend school should be trained to leave their things ready for the morning start. Their books should be packed, their tables left clear, their homework in its place with the books. If that is done, and if their coats, hats, rubbers, and mittens are in their set places, the morning start will be less of a nightmare and more of a pleasure.

Searching for lost things, battling for a clearing, and scolding about untidiness waste a tremendous amount of precious energy. Mothers can ill afford it. Plan so as to avoid most of it and make life easier and pleasanter for everybody.

Baking Powder Biscuits

The standard for a good baking powder biscuit varies geographically. In the South, a flat biscuit is generally preferred. The North favors a tall, puffy biscuit. Perfect baking powder biscuits are symmetrical in shape, doubled in size, with flaky, tender crumb. Experience counts in the making of baking powder biscuits. A more flaky biscuit is obtained if the flour and shortening are not too finely mixed. Flours vary in the amount of liquid they will absorb, therefore it is best to stir in all but 1 or 2 tablespoons of the liquid, adding the additional liquid, if needed as quickly as possible and before the mixture is smooth. The mixture is kneaded lightly for a few seconds before shaping to produce a more flaky biscuit.

Baking Powder Biscuits
2 cups sifted flour 1 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder 1 cup shortening
1 cup milk (about)

Mix and sift dry ingredients, cut in shortening until well mixed and add milk stirring quickly until a soft but not sticky dough is formed. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead just enough to shape into a smooth ball, roll lightly or pat 1 inch thick, and cut with floured biscuit cutter. Place on baking sheet 1 inch apart for a crusty biscuit, close together for a tall soft biscuit. Bake in very hot oven 450 degrees F. for 12 to 15 minutes. For less short biscuit reduce shortening to 2 tablespoons for a richer biscuit increase shortening to 1-3 cup and reduce milk to 2-3 cup (about). Makes about 14 (2 inch biscuits).

Capital Must be Protected To Speed Defense Activities

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER
Washington—Most of us find it difficult to take in the enormous fact of the defense program as a gigantic new factor in our economic life. In one respect, it is like the arrival of a huge new industry. It compares in a sense with the coming of the railroad and the automobile which have been moving forces in the whole national life, greatly altering it and giving it powerful stimulation.

But in another sense it will be much different. The railroad and the automobile came as permanent, peace-time industries to serve the daily needs of the people. They were new facilities which enabled people to save time and make money. They were tools of peace-time activity and as such were self-sustaining, profit-making enterprises in theory even if both have been subsidized by public funds in the form of rights of way and highways.

The new defense industry, on the other hand, is a necessary evil, one requiring great investment of capital for an unproductive purpose. The need for it might pass after a period. Powder plants, armor-plate plants, do not take their places in the peace-time economy at all in the way that the railroads and the automobile factories do.

Defense industries must be built now which may within a few years become idle, or nearly so. Steel is operating at almost capacity, and if British consumption continues, capacity may have to be expanded. But when Britain stops fighting, 20 or 30 per cent of active steel capacity might suddenly become superfluous. The same is true of many other defense facilities.

Private capital cannot be expected to venture unprotected into some of this heavy industry. It prefers to stay in safe government bonds. To do otherwise would, in many instances, amount to making a donation to the government.

That leaves the government the choice of building its own defense plants, or else of finding some way to protect private capital engaged in these uncertain ventures. The latter course, with government protection to private capital, is more suitable to our system. Consequently the national defense advisory commission, in consultation with the war and navy departments, the federal reserve board and other agencies, has devised a plan of co-operation between government and private manufacturers for the construction of new plants and additions through private capital guaranteed by the government. Bankers are being circulated with appeals for co-operation.

Plan Would Guarantee Loans to Manufacturers

Roughly, the plan calls for government guarantees of bank loans to private manufacturers for such plant construction through assignable contracts. The government and the manufacturer make a contract for construction of new plants or additions. That contract is entirely separate from the procurement contract for defense supplies. The government reimburses the contractor for his plant in five annual payments rather than through additions to the unit price of articles to be produced.

The private manufacturer takes his contract to his bank, where it serves as a guarantee, and obtains a bank loan. Banks have some $8,000,000,000 in excess reserves, and it is thought this plan will enable some of this private capital to come out safely for defense work. Rates should be even lower than the RFC makes.

At the end of the 5-year period, through which the manufacturer holds title, the government will have completely reimbursed the manufacturer for his plant, and he will have paid off his bank loan.

Then he has the option to buy the plant at cost minus depreciation or, if he has no further use for it, the government takes it over, making a maintenance contract with him and placing the plant on the standby list against some future need.

But the chances are that the defense needs will continue for a long time, because the age of force is now in its prime. If so, private capitalism will find a guaranteed outlet in the defense industry, thus avoiding the creation of a huge core of state-owned industry in our economy. If the reaction of the bankers is favorable the plan will go into operation. If not, then we surely will be driven down the road of state socialism.

Dairy Booths to Appear in Stores

You'll even be able to buy dairy products in department stores when Appleton's merchants and Outagamie county's farmers band together for a 3-day promotion of dairy sales Oct. 17, 18, and 19.

At least four Appleton department stores already have agreed to have dairy booths during the three days. The store owners have invited rural groups to supervise the booths.

C. E. Mullen is chairman of the merchants committee, assisted by Karl Haugen and Herman Heckert. These three men are working with J. F. Magnus, county agricultural agent.

The state department of agriculture will furnish window displays for stores, Kenneth H. Corbett, secretary of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, reported today.

Movie Land Its People and Products

By Jimmie Fidler

Hollywood—Today, my good friend Oliver "Babe" Hardy and partner, Stan Laurel, open a personal appearance tour in Omaha, Nebraska. Their act, which had a try-out at the Golden Gate Exposition (a Red Cross benefit witnessed by 30,000) is especially funny and will make them many new friends.

But frankly, it's my opinion they should not be on tour. I'm speaking, of course, from a selfishly Hollywood point of view. While their presence in various cities will bring enjoyment to THOUSANDS who will see them, it's far more important that comedians of their caliber remain right here in Hollywood making screen fun for audiences totaling MILLIONS.

Midst all the groaning of producers about poor business, it's appalling how few of them have good sense enough to realize that if theater receipts are down, it's their own fault. The one thing the public de-will dispense their comic antics in person. In the same breath, I say "silly you" to film chiefs who, even as they bemoan hard times, allow their best box office assets to wander into other fields.

CUFF NOTS—Wot's this about Errol Flynn, British subject and licensed aviator, planning to join up with the Royal Air Force? ... Marie Blake of the "Dr." Kildare series and sister of Jeanette MacDonald is hospitalized for surgery. ... Jimmy Stewart returned to town in a new cabin plane, his own.

Instead of idly sitting back and permitting Laurel and Hardy, two of our best comics to make an extended p. a. tour, studio heads should be sitting up nights seeking new laugh-vehicles in which to star them. At a time when the world is filled with horror and sorrow, most men seek mental relief in laughter.

I say "lucky you" to residents of those cities in which Babe and Stan

Benny Goodman, now a well man, and Eunice Healy, Al Johnson's stage lead, are smoking again.

BELLS AND NO BELLS. Bells to Gary Cooper and Myrna Loy, for donating their checks for Lux radio appearances ($5000 each) to Red Cross. ... 20th Century-Fox for giving the late Eddie Collins' 19-year-old daughter a much needed job. ... Clark Gable, for donating his entire fruit crop to the Veterans Hospital—and delivering it in person. ... NO BELLS to: Those major studios which, to trim overhead eliminated fan mail departments. Fans faithful enough to patronize too many recent pictures deserve a better deal.

MEMORIES: When Jeanette MacDonald, locationing at Lake Tahoe, turned out at one a. m. to sign autographs for high school serenaders. When a complete stranger, infuriated because his wife kept fan photos of Valentine on her bedroom wall, accosted Rudy in a night club and threatened mayhem. ... When John Gilbert shunted his "double" aside and dived into icy sea water to set an example for rebellious extras. ... When character actor Donald MacDonald, during prohibition days, poured a case of super-expensive liquor down the kitchen sink on a phoned "tip" that prohibition agents were going to raid his private party—then learned that the tip was a gag. Murray Warns Farmers Not To be Misled

Scores New Deal On Floor of House For 'Empty Promises'

Washington—A warning to farmers not to be "misled by empty promises" was given, on the floor of the house Thursday by Congressman Reid F. Murray, Waupaca Republican, who said, "The New Dealers should tell the farmers that there is nothing left in the United States treasury to promise, as they have spent it, and that the third and fourth generations will be paying for what has already been spent and wasted by the New Deal."

Asserting that there are many facts "New Dealers will not tell the farmers," Murray challenged his Democratic colleagues to "explain in detail the fake parity payment program." He said that up to Jan. 1, 1940, cotton farmers, alone, "have had 68 per cent of this so-called parity money." Some states averaged "no payment per farm per year, while other states averaged $80 to $86 payment per farm per year," he declared.

"New Dealers defend the reciprocal trade treaties, whereby the power is delegated to one man to

While farmers in the United States "have been receiving $3,000,000,000 in subsidies, which is borrowed money, the farmers' share of the public debt has risen over $6,000,000," Murray continued. "The New Dealers will not tell," he said further, "that, while the farmer, on the basis of total farms in Wisconsin has obtained a subsidy of $48 per farm per year for six years, or less than $300 per farm average, the public debt has increased so much that there is an invisible mortgage of $1,000 placed on every farm in America by the New Deal."

"Malingering" in Ford's Military Administration. Not that you'll find much application for it in peacetime," he added more tolerantly, "but it's interesting reading. Surprising to what lengths people will go to fake a disability. He says, if I remember correctly, that a copper penny, bound on with a cloth soaked in vinegar, leaves a very fair imitation of a bruise."

It was about then that I began to get the drift of the conversation. "You're talking about Sandra aren't you?" I demanded, and then remembered something. "So that was why she got the vinegar from the mess hall—and the towel from her said looked as if Jeff had been polishing brass with it—" The surgeon looked at me sharply. "Any idea why she should want to fake a black eye?" he asked. "Yes. Oh yes. To take out a grudge on Jeff. I'm glad I found that out. I don't feel so sorry for her now. She had potentialities, didn't she?"

"She had indeed." He paused, looked from Captain Jones to me in some embarrassment. "Of course I was only teasing the captain here for not having discovered the fake when he first examined the body. Anyone might have overlooked it. Matter of fact, he's had a good bit on his mind this past fortnight. Three violent deaths, and his wife very ill in Chicago. She's all right now, I'm glad to say, and the mother of a fine boy. The scamp arrived ahead of schedule, otherwise I wouldn't have been on leave—" I congratulated the captain and saw that he looked nicer when he smiled. Then the surgeon delivered his opinion that I was in my right mind and had nothing to worry about. X-rays taken during the night showed no fracture; my coma had probably been due ninety per cent to shock. I should remain in bed for a few days to give any mild concussion time to subside.

They went away, and I partook sparingly of a modest lunch. Afterward I slept. In my dazed mental state I had no curiosity about the night's events. It was easier to lie there, safe and thankful, thinking of nothing but my aches and pains and the blessing of being alive.

FRIDAY'S GAMES
Oshkosh at Green Bay West.
Green Bay East at Sheb. Central.

SATURDAY'S GAME
Sheboygan North at Appleton.

Appleton High school gridders will start their new grid and blue uniforms and a new lineup when they open the home season in the Fox River Valley conference here at 2:15 tomorrow afternoon at Whiting field of Lawrence college. The opponent will be Sheboygan North. Both teams were defeated last week by Green Bay clubs and neither is rated as a first division team. Last year the only Appleton victory was over North.

Appleton closed the week's heavy drills last evening with a lengthy scrimmage. The workout saw several long runs by backs but it also saw obvious weaknesses in the defensive setup. Nickasch and Plette got off several lengthy gallops as did Horn. Both teams scored touchdowns.

Earlier in the week the Terrors were drilled on weaknesses which cropped up in the season's opener at Green Bay East. The linemen were given individual instruction in the fine points of contact work while the backs carried the ball and did considerable tackling.

Efforts during the week have earned several new boys the right to start Saturday's game. Cliff Burton will be at right end instead of tackle as last week. John Murphy will be found at the right tackle position with Ray Treiber at right guard.

Horn at Fullback
Bill Delong remains in the backfield as the blocker with Rod Dickinson calling the signals. Norman Nickasch, who got away for one of the longest runs last night and who does the punting, will be at one half with Norbert Horn in the fullback slot. Horn's running during the week has continued good while his defensive play has improved.

Reports from Sheboygan are that North has been revamped from end to end. The left shore team was weak at the positions and also at the tackles last week. However, it showed possibilities in the air and indications are that footballs will be tossed all over the place Saturday. Colton, a left half, does most of the passing while Pule and Kalk held their own punting. North scored its long touchdown on a pass with Gier, end, going over.

The conference program opens tonight with two games. Oshkosh goes to Green Bay West and Green Bay East goes to Sheboygan Central. Oshkosh will give West a test for the Indians are bigger than North. However, Oshkosh apparently has only Arden Luker. East versus Central will be a battle with East forced to show everything to win.

Manitowoc will play Rufus King of Milwaukee while Fond du Lac takes on St. John Military Academy in non-league games.

Giants are "Humpty-Dumpties" To Terry; Promises Changes

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
New York—Mr. Terry now refers to his Giants as "humpty-dumpties" and promises sweeping changes next season. . . . Anyway, Dick Chapman is a conscientious guy. The day after he won the amateur title, he was down at the Merion club at Philly taking a golf lesson from Sam Byrd.

Coaching Worries
In the Long Island U. squad is a 236-pound linesman named Leo Lainoff. . . . He's a whale of a gragger, but he just doesn't seem to be good enough to oust any of the regulars. . . . Also, he is too good to sit on the bench. . . . Coach Clair Bee is asking you like a friend, what you are going to do with a guy like that?

Billy Durocher, first cousin of the Dodger manager, is doing all right on the Franklin and Marshall freshman grid squad. . . . Mike Jacobs got a taste of the old raspberry when they introduced him at the Furr-Armstrong fight at Washington the other night. . . . No secret, Boston college wants to use a win over Tulane tomorrow as a stepping stone to the Sugar Bowl.

Saturday Tilts Look Like Rose Bowl Double Feature

BY ARNOLD DERLITZKI
Chicago—A preview of what could be expected should the Big Ten and Pacific Coast conferences ever get together for a Rose bowl football finish comes up Saturday.

The program, in its own way, outdoes the Rose bowl in that it offers a form of double feature—Washington versus Minnesota at Minneapolis and Michigan versus California at Berkeley.

West coast fans will get an eyeful of terrible Tom Harmon and his Big Ten title contenders; midwestern enthusiasts a look at one of the coast's top notch threats this season—and no one will use up transcontinental mileage except the rival teams.

The experts are giving the Wolverines the nod over California, but are more reticent about Minnesota, even though the Gophers have beaten Washington in two previous meetings. It may be because Coach Jimmy Phelan of the Huskies has eight of the regulars who held Southern California to a 9-7 triumph last year.

Two other Big Ten members—Ohio State and Purdue—also open the 1940 campaign Saturday, the Buckeyes against Pittsburgh at Columbus and the Boilermakers against Butler at Lafayette.

Coach Francis Schmidt decided yesterday that his 1940 Ohio State club was polished sufficiently offensively and ordered a two-hour defensive drill. He also settled the problem of who would fill in for the injured Jim Strausbaugh at halfback by naming Dick Fisher. Tom Kinkade will get the call at right half, the post left vacant by the graduation of Frank Zadorny.

Purdue held a long scrimmage and tested its defense against the freshmen. At Minnesota the 24 players most likely to see service against Washington were sent through a long dummy scrimmage. Iowa got another heavy dose of signal and pass drills.

Defense Stressed
Indiana stressed defense, blocking for the passers and the runback of kickoffs. Coach Bo Millin had senior fullbacks Ray Dumke and Joe Toffi calling signals in place of quarterback Eddie Herbert who is out for the season with a broken knee cartilage. Halfback Hal Hursh was sidelined by a bruised leg.

Wisconsin continued to drill on offense. In yesterday's tough scrimmage, sophomore Mark Hoskins scored three times. Northwestern went through routine drills with Coach Lynn Waldorf keeping a sharp eye on the progress of his reserve linemen. Each team has a game Saturday with its freshman squad. So does Illinois. But Coach Bob Zuppke jumped the gun and called for a skirmish between the two yesterday. The varsity, with Paul Milosevich and George Rettinger each scoring two touchdowns, won 27 to 6.

Three plane loads of Michigan players landed at the Oakland airport last night with some of the players complaining of air sickness. Coach Fritz Crisler had a light drill planned for today.

Expect 50,000 Fans For Tiger-Indian Game
Cleveland—A—Though hurt and disappointed by the team bickering that probably has deprived them of their first baseball pennant in 20 years, Cleveland's fans prepared to give one final, dogged yell for their staggering Indians today.

Near 50,000 of them, faintly hoping that the miracle might yet happen, were expected to crowd into the opening game of the "do-or-don't" series against the tearing Tigers from Detroit.

Today's Guest Star
Dan Desmond, Sioux City (Ia.) Journal: "One of the gadgets in Bob Feller's new home at Van Meter will touch off a series of aerial bombs and turn on a storm warning. If Hank Greenberg happens in the vicinity, Greenberg has battled .471 against Feller this season."

Giants fans are cheering the Yankees for their fine pennant drive and that gentlemen, is something. . . . Heywood Hale Brown, son of the late columnist, has joined the sports staff of "P. M." New York Daily. . . . The Auburn gridders will have twins—John and Frank Bridges—battling it out for the guard slots on the yearling team.

Followed the Crowd
One of the Cleveland insurrectionists is reported to have told Al Simmons: "I don't know whatever got me to go up to the front office with the fellows and ask to have Vitt fired. . . . He always was good to me, and if it wasn't for him, I might not be in the majors. . . . I guess it's just that I haven't a mind of my own and followed the crowd."

OPPOSE SHEBOYGAN NORTH TOMORROW: Here are two members of the Appleton High school football squad who'll be in there against Sheboygan North tomorrow afternoon at Whiting field. At the top is Norbert Horn, fullback, and one of the best ball carriers on the team. He also is a left handed passer. Just above is Bruce Curry, playing center. He started the season as a blocker in the backfield but went back to his old job of tossing up the ball from the pivot position. Appleton is a slight favorite to win tomorrow's game. Honor Buckets Goldenberg At Packer-Cardinal Game

Milwaukee—Packer fans from the "Cream City" and southern Wisconsin will trek to State Fair park Sunday afternoon to see the 1939 National Professional league champions carry on against the Chicago Cardinals. Referee Bobby Cahn will toot the opening whistle at 2 p. m.

Aside from the game proper, it will be a sort of "homecoming" day in Milwaukee. Officially designated as "Buckets Goldenberg Day," a special ceremony between halves will honor the former Milwaukee high school star and powerful Packer guard who has been with the league "champs" since 1933, the year after he got out of the University of Wisconsin. "Buckets," one of the mainstays in the Packer line who seems to get better each year, is promised a great ovation in his "home town" and he is to be presented with a special gift which a good-will committee has obtained through popular subscription.

It will be "homecoming" in another sense for the new Cardinal coach, Jimmy Conzelmann, the former quarterback of the old Rock Island "pro" team who is still regarded as one of the craftiest of field generals and runners. The game has ever known. Conzelmann will be remembered in Milwaukee as one of the coaches of the old Milwaukee Badgers. That was back in the middle 20's.

While the Packers still smart from the decisive 41 to 10 defeat handed them by the Chicago Bears last Sunday, incidentally the first defeat for the 1939 champions in 11 starts, Coaches E. L. (Curly) Lambeau and Assistant "Red" Smith have rebuilt the damaged battle front. With an intensive week of practice nearing a close, every back and lineman has a new determination to wipe out last week's upset by hammering the "red birds" from the "Windy City."

Conzelmann will present an imposing lineup against the Packers, such as Marshall Goldberg, All-American from Pittsburgh for three seasons; Gaynell Tinsley, All-League end and one of the best pass snatchers in the business; Charles (K) Aldrich, Texas Christian center and another former All-American, and Robert Kellogg, high scoring halfback from Tulane, and Marty Christensen, hard-hitting Minnesota fullback, both of whom played on the 1940 All-Stars team against the Packers.

National Cage Circuit:
Loses Pair of Teams
Oshkosh—The National Basketball league will operate with six instead of eight teams this season, it was announced today. Comprising the Western division will be Oshkosh, Sheboygan and Chicago, with Hammond, Ind., and the Good-years and Firestones of Akron in the eastern division.

Detroit has been dropped from the league for failure to meet requirements and the application of Fort Wayne has been deferred for a year.

The league season will be opened by the Akron Goodyears appearing at Sheboygan Nov. 28 and against the Oshkosh All-Stars here Nov. 30.

Bob Schmidt Pounds 10 Straight Strikes
Bob Schmidt, veteran Appleton bowler, cut loose with a 280 game while practicing at Arcade alleys one night this week. Schmidt opened with a strike, cleaned a spare and then bucked down to 10 straight strikes. He rolled 200, 183 and 215 in previous games.

Homecoming to Mark St. Mary Game Tonight

Dance Will Follow
Tilt With Squires
At Butte des Morts

Menasha—St. Mary's High school will observe its first official homecoming tonight with St. Norbert High school, DePere, providing the opposition at Butte des Morts field. The game will start at 8 o'clock and will be followed by a dance in St. Mary's gymnasium. The Young Ladies Sodality is sponsoring the dance.

The Zephyr gridders will attempt to maintain their string of victories in Fox Valley Catholic conference play which is unbroken since the start of the 1937 season. The Zephyrs have won the conference grid championship for the last three years.

St. Norbert High school defeated the Zephyrs 6 to 0 in 1938 for their last victory. Since that time the Squires have managed to score only one touchdown while the Zephyrs have run up four straight victories. Three times they piled up 26 points a game but last year they managed only a 6 to 0 victory.

Although the St. Norbert team lost several of the players from last year, the team is expected to be strong and will provide the Zephyrs with their stiffest conference test. The St. Mary's team tops the conference with a 48 to 0 victory over St. Joseph Indian school at Keshena but that game was no test because of the small Keshena squad, not large enough for two teams.

The Zephyr coaches probably will start the same lineup as last week. That will have William Bayer at center, Tom Verbrick and Wilbur Poth at tackles, Sylvester Burghardt and Bob Birling at guards, and Farnham Johnson and Norbert Bayer at ends. The backfield will have Don Hoks at quarterback and his brother Emmet at fullback with Al Taves and Len Schipferling at the halfback posts.

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

Jersey City, N. J. — (AP) — Bids were in order today for a rebuilding job on heavyweight title aspirations of Patrick Edward Comiskey as the fight world speculated anew on the merit of the game's most unpredictable figure — Max Baer.

The 31-year-old Max, transferring to explosive fists the energy often reserved for clowning, knocked out the youthful Paterson (N. J.) fighter, who was rated the most likely challenger for Joe Louis' crown, in 2 minutes and 39 seconds of the first round of their scheduled 15-round bout at Roosevelt Stadium last night.

When Referee Jack Dempsey stopped the fight Comiskey was draped over the top strands of the ropes like a limp rag. He had been down for an eight count a few seconds earlier.

A wicked short right caught green Pat solidly on the button to mark the beginning of the end. Comiskey had started out dancing lightly and stabbing the grim Max with darting lefts.

He survived one brief flurry of looping rights and lefts, and it appeared the Paterson boy might be able to take it, but that flurry was only the skirmish line for the cagey Baer's main attack.

"I sucked him in and found out I could nail him," Max said. Nail him he did, Pat sitting down abruptly. He came up fighting, but Max, always the killer when he senses a weakness in an opponent, was on him with a tremendous barrage of lefts and rights. There was nothing for Dempsey to do but step in and stop it.

Disappointed, but not discouraged, Comiskey today was asking rather weakly for a return match. "It was a wild swinging fool," he said bitterly.

Mack's Remark About Yanks Bounds Back

His Team Now Must Head Off Champs' Drive

BY JUDSON BAILEY

Associated Press Sports Writer

Connie Mack, a well-known baseball manager and little-known prophet when he predicted last spring the four-time world champion Yankees would crumble this year, has his last chance to make good on that prediction today.

With an almost imaginary chance to return to the American league flag, the New Yorkers have won their last eight games in a whirlwind finish that ever now is looming like a sword of Damocles over the heads of the Cleveland Indians and the Detroit Tigers.

Detroit can eliminate Cleveland with one victory any time it can get a today tomorrow or Sunday. But unless the Yankees get whipped, the Tigers will have to win twice at Cleveland to evade a tie with the champions.

That's why old Connie's forecast is right: back in his lap today, for his Philadelphia Athletics will be meeting the Yanks for the last time this season and the A's can make certain that New York doesn't get any farther by winning this one game.

Connie did his best in preparing for the crisis. He saved Johnny Babich for the pitching job. Babich, a prize pulled out of last year's draft, has beaten New York in four of five starts this season. But it takes a lot to stop the Yankee juggernaut these days, and the A's couldn't do yesterday in spite of two good pitching performances. The Yanks swept a doubleheader, 5-4 and 2-0, to put the standings in this shape for the payoff.

The Yanks were held to 10-9 in the first game yesterday, but Joe Gordon and Bill Dickey each hit homers with one on, and Ruffing doubled and scored the deciding run in the sixth on a single by the ever-dependable Gordon.

Each team was held to four hits in the nightcap, but Ernie Bonham kept his scattered, no more than one to an inning. The only time he got into trouble, when Benny McCoy tripled with one out, Bonham fanned the next two batters. Buck Ross matched him till the sixth, when a walk and two singles loaded the bases, and two runs scored, one being forced in with another pass and the other on an infield out.

After today's game with the A's, New York winds up the season at Washington with a doubleheader tomorrow and a single game Sunday.

The Tigers and the Indians rested yesterday in preparation for today's crucial contest in which Schoolboy Rowe faces Bobby Feller. Cleveland has to win all three games in the series to get past Detroit and still will be open to a tie with the Yanks, unless New York gets beaten somewhere along the route.

In the only other American league game yesterday, the Senators squeezed past the Boston Red Sox, 6-5, with two runs in the ninth inning when Gerald Walker tripled with one on and scored on a single.

The National league champions, Cincinnati's Reds, divided a doubleheader at St. Louis. Johnny Vander Meer pitched six-hit ball to take the first game, 4-3, and Rookie Newt Kimball came back with a seven-hit job in the nightcap for a 5-1 triumph.

The Boston Bees bottled the Brooklyn Dodgers twice, 5-2 and 5-4. Rookie Don Manna hit a homer with the bases full in the first game, and pinchhitter Max West doubled with the sacks loaded in the nightcap's ninth.

The New York Giants took two from the tail-end Phillies, 3-1 and 2-1, as Harry Gumbert pitched four-hit ball and Bob Carpenter six.

Pittsburgh squeezed past the Chicago Cubs, 7-6, in a free-hitting tussle.

The Pirates, fighting to hold fourth place, are now two full games ahead of the Cubs.

Chicago used five pitchers. A three run blitz in the seventh inning off Clay Blayton clinched the decision. Larry French, who started for the Cubs, gave way in the third inning to Ken Raffensberger, who was followed by Bry-

Every Series Has Had Stirring Moments Fans Like to Recall

AP Feature Service

Every world series has had its drama and down the long list of stirring incidents old-timers like to recall are a few that stand out—moments hard to equal.

Like the one in the seventh game in 1926. Jess Haines was pitching for the Cards. St. Louis had three runs, New York two—but the Yankees had had men on base in every inning and were nipping at that lead.

Haines, weakening in the seventh, suddenly found the bases filled with two out.

And up to bat came doughy Tony Lazzeri, the "poosh-em-up" guy, the ordinary batter who became a slugger in a clutch. Haines shook his head and stepped off the mound.

Then there was a roar from the crowd. That figure stalking in from the distant bullpen was old Grover Cleveland Alexander, with two series triumphs already chalked up, coming in to pull this one from the fire. He had beaten the Yanks just the day before.

The Pitch: Lazzeri set himself. Alex pitched. "Strike," called. "Ball."

Alex stretched, let go, and every Cardinal fan groaned. Lazzeri had slammed a wicked drive down the left field foul line.

But it was foul.

Alexander, still the methodical workman despite the furore, uncorked his next pitch. Lazzeri swung, the catcher nonchalantly rolled the ball back to the box and the Cards had won the series. Not a Yankee reached first in the next two innings.

There hardly has been a more dramatic moment than when Babe Ruth faced Charley Root of the Cubs in the 1932 third game. Babe was disgusted with the taunts of the Cubs. Some 50,000 fans saw Ruth, at the plate, point his bat to the distant bleachers, "calling his shot." And he did just what he threatened.

ant. Claude Passeau and Vance Page.

John Lanning, who relieved starting pitcher Ken Heintzelman in the sixth, was credited with the victory.

There was drama aplenty in that famous seventh inning of the fourth game between the Chicago Cubs and the Athletics in 1929. The A's had won two of the first three games. In the fourth, at Philadelphia, the Cubs rolled up an 8-0 lead going into the seventh and the most rabid Athletic fans had conceded the visitors victory and a tied series.

Al Simmons, first Athletic up, homered. Polite applause acknowledged his useless effort. But Foxx singled, an outfielder lost the next man's fly, there were some more hits, Hack Wilson misjudged a fly which went for a three-run homer, and the score was suddenly 8-7. Cichrane walked, Simmons' bounder went over the third baseman's head, Foxx singled and the crowd went wild as Cochrane tied the score. Jimmy Dykes' double a little later in the inning was good for two more runs.

There were other sudden, unexpected moments of drama. Like the time Connie Mack surprisingly stuck old Howard Ehmke in against the Cubs in the first 1929 game—and Ehmke not only beat them

White Sox Drew Well

Chicago — The Chicago White Sox drew 228,748 fans this year in seven night games. It surpassed last year's seven-game total by approximately 22,000. Biggest crowd this season was 48,104 with the Yankees, next came the Cleveland tilt with 44,877 and then Boston with 40,104. Smallest turnout was 14,794, with St. Louis.

but set a world series strikeout record.

Or that 1920 series, when Bill Wambgsan turned in a triple play, unassisted, for Cleveland against the Dodgers. Or Earl Smith's homer with the bases loaded for Cleveland in that same series.

Chaff Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

Dear "Master Mind,"

Look who points the gullible finger! Whadayah call it when a sports editor, of his own admission, gets taken in by the customary bear stories and picks but 6 of 15 games right??? Sure I lost on the Packers but I bet on the Packers that walloped the All Stars and knocked off the Redskins, not the Packers that took the field Sunday. While we guessed wrong, we aren't like Gordon R. McIntyre at the next desk. Gordon pours over reams of grid statistics every Friday afternoon during the football season and then tears up those little orange cards come Monday morning.

You asked for it and we're coming out swinging with the following predictions on this week's pigskin puzzlers:

Appleton-Sheboygan North—The Terrors are going to win some ball games this year and this probably will be one of them.

Green Bay West-Oshkosh—Luker and Co. didn't like that loss at the hands of Manitowoc and will win going away.

Manitowoc-Rufus King—Our 1-man gang, Cliff Champagne, should spark the Shipbuilders to a narrow decision.

St. Norbert-S. Dakota State—The westerners sound too tough.

Clintonville-New London — We don't think Coe can do it.

dusted off the brown derby and drew the Truckers.

West DePere-Shawano—Don't see how the Phantoms can stop Billy Reed. Shawano it is with no ifs nor buts.

Monmouth-Beloit—Hit a snag here but we'll ride with the downstate boys.

Neenah-Mil. Country Day—Coach George Christoph has got something there this year. Our vote goes to the Rockets.

Kaukauna-Menasha — Giordana, Alger and, maybe, Glen Miller, will be in the Bluejays' hair all afternoon. The Ghosts in a walk.

Lawrence-Grinnell—Sorry, Bernie, but our judgment, which is no criterion, tells us the Iowans will be on the tall end of the score. And we hope we're wrong.

Little Chute - Kimberly — We should either leave this one for you or dope it as a tie. Our cracked crystal ball, however, shows a glimmer of Little Chute.

Manawa-Waupaca — Fedora, do your stuff! Waupaca.

Marion - Pulaski—The Pigeons looked good against Mosinee and should take Pulaski.

Coe-Ripon—Ripon's the team to beat in the Midwest conference and

And briefly, here are "the master mind's" selections: Appleton over North; West over Oshkosh; Central over East; Manitowoc over Rufus King; St. Norbert over South Dakota State; New London over Clintonville; Shawano over West DePere; Monmouth over Beloit; Country Day (Ken Laird's team) over Neenah; Kaukauna over Menasha; Packers over the Cards; Grinnell over Lawrence; Little Chute over Kimberly; Manawa over Waupaca; Marion over Pulaski; St. Mary's of Menasha over St. Norbert but awfully close; Ohio State over Pittsburgh.

And here are a few more: California-Michigan: The guess is Michigan, despite the long trip. Minnesota-Washington: We'll take a chance on the Gophers. Tulane-Boston College: This vote goes to Tulane.

U. C. L. A.-Southern Methodist: S. M. U.'s Mustangs expect to give Texas A. and M. something to worry about in the southwest and rate the call over U. C. L. A.

Ohio State-Pitt: The choice is Ohio State.

North Carolina-Wake Forest: North Carolina.

Duke - Virginia Military: Duke's Blue Devils should win handsly.

Southern California-Washington State: Southern California.

Louisiana State-Mississippi: Harry Mebre's Mississippians to take this Southeastern conference fray.

Florida-Mississippi State: Mississippi State.

Stanford-San Francisco: Clark Shaughnessy's debut at Stanford, and it could end on the wrong foot. Still, Stanford.

Texas-Colorado: The coin says Texas.

Texas Aggies-Texas A. and I.: The Nation's No. 1 team of 1935 against a fairly rugged foe. Texas Aggies.

Navy-William and Mary: The Tars look plenty strong enough for this one.

Vanderbilt-Washington and Lee: Vanderbilt.

North Carolina State-Davidson: North Carolina State.

Denver-Iowa State: Iowa State to avenge last year's beating.

Santa Clara - Utah: Santa Clara seems too sturdy.

Texas Christian-Centenary: TCU's Horned Frogs.

Virginia-Lehigh: Virginia.

Missouri-St. Louis: Taking Missouri.

California Lassies Powerful Threats to Betty Jameson's Reign

Del Monte, Calif.—(AP)—Defending Champion Betty Jameson of Texas is still the girl to beat in the national women's golf tournament, but a pair of comely California lassies shape up as powerful threats to blonde Betty's reign.

This was the situation today as the battle for the women's crown went into the semi-finals over the tough Pebble Beach course—a setting that saw three new faces in the United States championship scene.

The San Antonio champ met Clara Callender of Long Beach, Calif., in the big match of the day, while Mrs. James Ferrie, of Pasadena, Calif., met Jane Cochran of Greenville, S. C., in the other half of the draw.

Today's matches were over the 18-hole route. The finals tomorrow will be 36 holes.

Battle Creek Must Win to Stay in Meet

Battle Creek, Mich.—(AP)—Birmingham, Ala., undefeated in four starts, meets South Bend, Ind., today in the "sandlot world series" of the American baseball congress.

South Bend, in company with two other remaining teams, Battle Creek and Charlotte, N. C., has suffered one defeat, and a loss to Birmingham would mean elimination.

Charlotte put Holyoke, Mass., out of the tournament in winning yesterday's only game, 10 to 1.

Battle Creek, with a fifth round bye, plays either Charlotte or South Bend tomorrow, depending on the outcome of today's game.

Two Badger Gridders Are Declared Eligible

Madison—(AP)—Albert Lorenz, of Oak Park, Ill., and Robert Baumann, of Harvey, Ill., outstanding end candidates, have passed make-up examinations and will be eligible for competition with the University of Wisconsin football team this fall. Coach Harry Stuhldreher said today.

But this good news was overshadowed by a report that Leonard Seelinger, talented sophomore left halfback, would be examined for a rib injury he suffered during scrimmage yesterday. Doctors will determine the extent of the injury today.

Seelinger, Mark Hoskins, Lancaster halfback, and Bob Ray, Eau Claire fullback, turned in brilliant scrimmage performances. Hoskins scored three touchdowns and the others made long gains on ground and aerial plays.

Kimberly Ragged in Drill for Dutchmen

Village Gridders Clash Tonight on Papermakers' Field

Kimberly — The high school gridders went through scrimmage with a poor showing at the ball park Thursday evening. It seemed the team couldn't remember signals and would repeatedly miss assignments. Tonight the team meets St. John Dutchmen of Little Chute who probably will gain revenge for last year's licking by the Papermakers.

It doesn't seem possible that with the showing the Papermakers made last night they can cop on the following evening. The team is green but may come through for Coach Hamann has always built a good team every year. One of the largest crowds in years is expected to witness the struggle. Little Chute always has followed its team in large numbers and with Kimberly fans equally interested, the attendance should be high. Fans are hoping that the Kimberly boys will snap out of it and play ball like they are capable of doing.

Subs will include D. Vosters, C. Koehn, C. Lenz, K. Shannon, H. Hurst, J. De Groot, R. Van Asten, E. Van Eperen, E. Van Bostel, A. Van Bokel, J. De Koch, and J. West. M. De Bruin is coach and L. Boots is the assistant coach. G. Hermens and B. Van Zeeland are managers. Color of the uniforms are blue and white.

Subs will include T. Van Hamberg, J. Van Nuland, John Frisette, K. Dietzen, R. Ebben, T. Prue, H. Ewer, L. Mautho, D. Stuyvenberg, T. Busch, C. Lemmers, R. Willis, F. Van Cuyk, C. Gaffney, J. Smits, Ray Hamann as coach and Ray Christoph as assistant. Dean Barand and Henry Van Eperen are managers. The uniforms are red and white.

Menasha High Gridders Open League Season

Bluejays Travel to Kaukauna Saturday To Face Champions

Menasha—Menasha High school gridders will open their Northeastern Wisconsin conference season Saturday afternoon when they travel to Kaukauna to oppose the two-time winners of the conference grid championship. The game is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock.

Coach N. A. Calder will take a squad of 26 players to Kaukauna but will not name the complete squad until after the final drill this afternoon. The probable Bluejay starters will be Ray Michalkiewicz at center, Elmer Martell and Robert Nantke or Gene Resch at tackles, Harold Funk and James DeLong or Verle Franz at guards and Ed Humski and William Thompson at ends.

The starting backfield may have William Robinson at quarterback instead of the right halfback post with Ray Wippich at right half instead of at end. Roland O'Brien probably will be at left half with Robert Wideman at fullback. Robinson and Wideman did the most effective running in the opener against Two Rivers last week. The Bluejays have been drilling on pass offense this week. The Menasha passers received little protection in the opening game and Coach Calder has been working on the blocking assignments. The squad also received several new plays to use against the Kaws as Coach Paul Little watched Menasha against Two Rivers.

Potato Blight Is Crop Threat In Unsprayed Fields, Crop Is Damaging, College Expert Says

The potato blight is making inroads on a number of Wisconsin potato fields, according to John Brann of the Wisconsin college of agriculture. Brann reported some infection evident in eastern counties and a heavier infection in central and northern counties. He found that a number of growers had been able to control the disease by repeated spraying with bordeaux mixture. In these fields, tubers are of good size and there are no signs of rot. In unsprayed fields, however, a threatening amount of the disease was found.

Just how severe the blight becomes still depends on the weather. Brann explained. A lot of wet weather would cause serious losses, while dry weather—so that spores of the blight fungus aren't washed down from the leaves onto the tubers—would hinder the infection. Early potatoes, particularly early planted triumphs and cobbles, which matured before the blight could establish itself, escaped with no damage, the potato specialist indicated. Later planted triumphs and cobbles and chippewas late rurals, and green mountains are suffering.

APIARIST IS 90—Harmon Stevens, one of Wisconsin's oldest apiarists, still likes to be busy about bees through he will have to take time off Saturday to celebrate his ninetieth birthday. He became a bee hunter when 7 years of age, learning from his father.

Old Bee Hunter Will Celebrate 90th Birthday

Stockbridge — Harmon Stevens, one of Wisconsin's first bee hunters and probably the state's oldest active apiarist, will celebrate his ninetieth birthday Saturday.

The celebration will be held at the Stevens homestead 1 1/2 miles south of Stockbridge.

Mr. Stevens was born in Fond du Lac county. His father, Andrew Stevens, was a bee hunter and his son followed in his father's footsteps by becoming a bee hunter at the age of 7. In 1833 the family moved to the Stockbridge Indian reservation.

Mr. Stevens takes a keen interest in economics and politics and reads current magazines and newspapers. He is known familiarly by his friends as "Honest Uncle Harmon." He assists his son, Douglas, with the lighter work around the apiary. His eyesight still is good and his hands steady. During his years as an apiarist he has won scores of sweepstakes and awards at county and state fairs with honey, wax and bee colonies. On warm days he relaxes in the shade of basswood trees he planted when he was 70 years old.

Half of the Farmers Principal Producers

Half of the farmers of the United States produce about 90 per cent of the farm products sold, according to a Wisconsin college of agriculture bulletin received at the office of J. F. Magnus, county agricultural agent.

This suggests that the real reason that incomes of many farmers is small is that their volume of production is small. Even with high prices, these farmers would not receive large incomes because they sell little.

Many of these farmers are in the cotton south. Others are in the poorer farming areas in the mountainous sections and in the outcrops lands of the northern lake states as well as scattered through all agricultural areas.

Farm Auction

A. L. Schoenke, Clintonville will conduct an auction starting at 12:30 Tuesday afternoon at the Meikeljohn farm 2 1/2 miles northeast of Weyauwega and a half mile east on County Trunk Y. Cattle, poultry, feed and equipment will be sold.

The fall series of cards parties to be sponsored by the Altar society of St. Mary Catholic church, Greenville, will begin next Tuesday night. Mrs. Frank Dorn is chairman of the series.

Officials Decide Against 1940 Corn Quota Referendum

There will be no referendum on corn marketing quotas this year, according to a department of agriculture bulletin received by County Agent J. F. Magnus, because the 1940 crop and carryover estimates indicate a total corn supply for the 1940-41 marketing year of 2,897,000,000 bushels.

This supply is less than the 1940 marketing quota level, which has been determined as 2,930,000,000 bushels. A supply above this level would have required the holding of a referendum of corn producers to determine whether or not marketing quotas should be effective on corn marketed during the coming season.

The marketing quota level was determined by the secretary of agriculture with regard both to the probable effects of the present international situation and to the "consumer safeguard" clause of the Agricultural Adjustment act.

Officials report that the total acreage planted to corn in 1940 was about 88 million acres. The 1940 acreage is about 13 per cent below the average national corn acreage of the 1929-38 period. Corn production in 1940, on the basis of the September estimate, is about 12 per cent less than in 1939 but only about 2,000,000 bushels less than the 1929-38 average. The crop is about 4 per cent above the AAA corn production goal for 1940.

Wisconsin Is Second in Holstein Registration

The state of Wisconsin ranks second in the number of Holsteins registered during the month of July, according to the United States department of agriculture.

Wisconsin has 2,187 animals. The state of New York leads with 2,710. For the entire United States, there are 11,983.

FLIGHT ACROSS ARCTIC

Like many other young men, Hubert Wilkins decided he wanted to "see the world." That was 30 years ago, when he had reached the age of 22.

Wilkins was born in Australia, and lived there until the Balkan wars broke out. Obtaining work as a newspaper photographer, he traveled to the Balkans. There he not only took pictures to be printed in a newspaper, but also turned a moving picture camera on the battle scenes.

The next year saw him at work in a new field—the Arctic. In company with Stefansson, he boarded a ship and went through the icy waters north of the Arctic Circle. During the first World War, Wilkins served in the Australian flying corps. Later he made an airplane flight from England to Australia.

In 1920 he joined a party which explored land around the South Pole. Surely he was "seeing the world," or at least a great deal of it!

Twelve years ago, Wilkins won fame by a flight across the north frigid zone. Starting from Alaska, he flew to an island about 375 miles north of Norway. It was a trip of 2,200 miles, and was made at an average speed of 100 miles an hour.

Submarine used by Wilkins in effort to pierce Arctic.

For that deed, Wilkins received many honors. Among them was the honor of knighthood from the British King.

In 1931 he tried out what seemed a very strange idea to most persons. He fitted up a submarine for service under the ice of the Arctic ocean.

The submarine was obtained from the American government. Steel runners were put on top of it, so the vessel would be saved from harm when it ground against the underside of Arctic ice.

Wilkins believed he might be able to travel under water from one side of the Arctic ice cap to the other. The effort proved a failure.

A dive was made near Spitzbergen, but almost everything seemed to go wrong. The diving rudders were damaged. The ice drill at the top of the submarine was broken. Water pipes were frozen, and oil feeds were clogged. Blocks of ice broke pieces from the propeller blades.

The vessel was able to back up, and the order was given to retreat. Out from under the ice, it made its way back to Spitzbergen.

Home-Made Burglar Alarm Leads to Capture of Youths

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau

Oshkosh—A home-made burglar alarm led to the capture of two Neenah boys, 16 and 17 years old, as they attempted to burglarize the Lewis Knipfel service station at the intersection of Highways 41 and 125 in the town of Menasha early this morning.

The two lads had pried open a window on the north side of the station and were taking cigarettes when they were caught, according to Knipfel.

The alarm was built by Harvey Knipfel, 23, son of the proprietor. When a window of the station is opened or broken, a warning bell rings in the house, 500 feet away.

The alarm rang about 12 o'clock midnight and Harvey, armed with a rifle, ran to the filling station barefoot and clad only in his shorts. His father followed, dressed in trousers and shoes.

The youths were still inside. Harvey took a position behind the gasoline pump and ordered the boys to come out with their hands up. The older youth tried to escape but was knocked down by the proprietor.

The boys will be arraigned in juvenile court Monday before Judge S. J. Luchsinger.

They admitted entering the Knipfel station Monday night and taking $6.65 worth of cigarettes and soft drinks, police said. The burglar alarm was not connected Monday.

U. S. Rushes Big Training Camp In Florida Area

10 Million Dollar Project Must be Ready in 90 Days

BY WAYNE OLIVER

Stark, Fla.—(AP)—Amid scenes reminiscent of Florida's fabulous boom days, a military city designed to accommodate 50,000 troops is rising in mushroom fashion on a 119,000-acre tract that was sandy wasteland just a few weeks ago.

Such is the speed of the nation's expansion of its armed forces that contractors have been given 90 days to complete the $10,000,000 project that will transform a stretch of scrub oak and pine into one of the army's major training centers.

The war department won't even wait for completion of the undertaking before moving in troops. The 31st division, composed of national guardsmen from Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, has been ordered to the camp Nov. 25. One small detachment from Ft. Bragg, N. C., already has arrived.

The 32nd division will move in later and national guard officials said the 43rd division, composed of troops from Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, would be among other units using the camp.

Officially known as Camp Albert H. Blanding, the camp originally was intended for use of the Florida National Guard to replace facilities near Jacksonville, taken over by the navy for its big southeastern air base.

When the army decided to take advantage of the camp's location in a mild climate suitable for year round training, the reservation was increased from 32,000 acres to 119,000. Plans were quickly drafted for expansion far beyond what was originally contemplated.

Here are a few items that give an idea of the scope of the undertaking: 250 mess halls for employed personnel, 22 officers mess halls, 33 administration buildings, 40 recreation buildings, 42 motor repair shops, 18 infirmaries buildings, 32 warehouses, a $225,000 electric power plant, a $225,000 network of railroad tracks on the reservation, a $450,000 water system, a $500,000 sewer system, and 34 miles of paved highway.

Florida is dotted with defense projects, some larger than the one here, but none rivals Camp Blanding for speed and most of them took advantage of existing facilities. Camp Blanding started from scratch.

Illinois Pays $1.68 Daily for Road Upkeep

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—Illinois is paying $1.68 a day to maintain each mile of state highway.

Chief highway engineer Ernst Lieberman—who said the cost is "low in comparison with most states"—came forth with the daily cost figure after adding up such expenses as snow removal, weed cutting, labor costs, and roadways.

Figuring that the state paid $4,356,000 for maintenance of 12,610 miles of pavements during the first eight months of 1940, Lieberman divided the daily $1.68 per mile as follows:

Maintenance workers' wages, 76 cents; new equipments, 30 cents; operating expense, 22 cents; district and bureau overhead, 17 cents; and material 13 cents.

President Forgot Worker's Right Not to Join a Union

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

Chicago—In Chicago, where the greedy labor skate collaborates with common gangsters and brothel-keepers in the government of labor unions, portions of the speech which Franklin D. Roosevelt delivered to the teamsters' union in Washington still ring with a sound of the most baleful hypocrisy. I refuse to labor the question whether Mr. Roosevelt spoke as president of the United States or as leader and nominee of the social-democratic party. He is president of the nation, and it cannot be asked that his remarks go unchallenged merely because the challenge might reveal his insincerity and thus tend to impair the dignity of the office which he occupies. By that rule any president would always be above criticism by his political opponents.

President Roosevelt said to the teamsters, "You can remember when it was the common practice to discharge any worker who joined a union."

As to whether this ever was the common practice of employers I do not know. I have a hearsay impression that it was, but I am becoming more and more leary of hearsay. But, for the sake of argument, I will concede that this was so, because I want to hurry on to the other side of the situation which has been created by the Wagner act.

It is now the common practice of unions to compel the discharge of any worker who refuses to join, and this practice—as bad as violation of the citizens' rights as the one which the president, in these few words, so scornfully condemns—is upheld by the labor relations board. In other words, the government requires that the American citizen submit himself to the irresponsible, arbitrary and often larcenous and murderous rule of private groups, some of which, moreover, are very exclusive and debar vast numbers of citizens from lawful occupations. Now, if by joining a union, even involuntarily and at a sacrifice of principle and his rights, the citizen were assured some economic gain, that would be something. But in thousands of cases membership in the union, accepted under compulsion and threats of discharge, injury or death, results in a net financial loss to men and women in the poorest brackets.

Unions Prefer to be Voluntary Organizations

It has been shown that such unions, grown arrogant under the encouragement of Mr. Roosevelt's government, are exploited for fabulous profit by labor fakers of his own following, who do not hesitate to prey on the poorest toiler to the money to freight these crooks to Florida and maintain them in luxury amid the criminal scum from which many of them are socially and morally indistinguishable. The Lake Michigan shore near Chicago is adorned by many lovely homes of union thieves bought with tithes of the little people and money extorted from employers under threats to call the workers out on strike.

But whether the unions be rackets of communist auxiliaries, as many are, including the Newspaper Guild, controlling factions and certain transport and dockside unions, and even though a union be honest, the right not to join is still fundamental and inalienable.

These unions profess to be voluntary associations. They derive many legal privileges from that classification, but they use compulsion, and Mr. Roosevelt supports that compulsion.

The right not to join has not been abolished by clamor or by law. It is still the citizen's right, and Mr. Roosevelt's administration has been conniving at wholesale violation of that right.

It is the right to deal individually as a free man, the right to the rewards of one's toil and not to share that reward with any unofficial, irresponsible taxing and grafting authority.

It is the right, also, to withhold financial or moral support from any nominee, such as Mr. Roosevelt, to whom a majority of a labor union might wish to give a cash gift, Joseph and Gregory Hanagraaf contribution and an endorsement made unanimous by a familiar party.

War With Japan Is Possibility In Near Future

Military Faction of Far East Country Is Siding With Germany

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — War between the United States and Japan must be envisaged as a possibility in the near future. It may come before the presidential election if it does. It will be a regrettable decision because too many people in America believe that the administration has been using and will continue to use the present crisis in world affairs for political advantage.

Lawrence

There should be no war between America and Japan as long as possible elements in both countries exist. The facts, however, are that continuation of peaceful intentions is impaired by a series of events which may slowly drag both countries into the conflict against the own desires and interests.

In Japan there is a military faction which ignores the civilian group. The United States government has made repeated efforts to persuade the military in Japan that the status quo in the far east must not be upset and that part of the world must not be placed into the World War. Many Americans friendly to Japan have been expressing the same hope and have been urging, not a policy of "appeasement" which means surrender of vital interests under compulsion, but frank examination of all the issues involved so that some peaceful way of dealing with the problem may be found.

If civilizing influences are not brought to bear at both Tokyo and Washington America and Japan will inevitably drift into war. The problems are by no means insoluble, but at the same time, both America and Japan through their governments must be prepared to be realistic and practical.

New Friendship

The United States has every reason to maintain friendly relations with Japan and the Japanese have every reason to remain friendly with America. This is because a friendship between America and Japan is logical and transcends every advantage that might seem to accrue for a new friendship between Japan and Germany.

Germans in the far east have in the past been difficult for the Japanese to deal with and they would continue to be if Japan contributed to Nazi domination of the whole world. Next, America will always have a strong fleet and in due time will have a 2-ocean navy.

This can mean only added burdens of expense for Japan in trying to keep up with the armament race set by the richest and, industrially, the most powerful nation in the world.

Likewise, if the military elements in Japan insist on their alliance with Germany, it will leave to America the course of an open alliance with China as a means of harassing Japan. The reason why events in the far east are becoming grave is that the Japanese realize they must choose between America and Germany, and the military has chosen Germany. This can have in the end but one result—war between America and Japan.

Status in Pacific

For it is hardly to be doubted that the United States would allow a situation to exist in the world in which the Nazis controlled the Pacific through Japan and the Atlantic through a defeated Britain. The day of reckoning might be postponed, but it will hardly be averted if Japan sticks to her alliance with the axis.

There are some who argue that the time for a showdown is the present when China can be readily armed and when the American fleet is already in the Pacific. This state of mind is one of the most dangerous that could prevail, but it might enlighten the military elements in Japan who are pushing toward the Dutch East Indies, where vital raw materials like rubber and tin are produced.

America has been moving through diplomatic channels to impress upon the Japanese that the United States is not ready for a far eastern "Munich," but is ready now to protect her interests and to insist on the status quo. What this could make possible is a peaceful re-examination of all the issues between China, Japan and the United States. It would be a great diplomatic stroke if the United States were able to project a plan now that would bring about the pacification of the far east. It can be done if all three parties are realistic about the dire consequences of insisting on the use of force to secure compliance with their respective demands.

Commission of Inquiry
What ought to be done immediately is to ask Japan to agree to the appointment of a commission of inquiry composed of prominent men of both countries which should re-examine all questions at issue in the far east, with particular reference to a possible system of economic cooperation for peace on which the United States and Japan would join with the assistance of China in developing the resources of the far east.

Extension of sovereignty is not important if economic penetration permits a partnership of America, Japan and China in building up undeveloped areas.

Such a commission should not be appointed unless Japan agrees to maintain the military and naval status quo and the United States agrees on her part to permit raw materials needed by Japan to be shipped in the interim. America might well ask China and Japan to agree to an armistice pending the filing of a report by such a commission. Everybody in Japan and America has more to gain than to lose by peace in the Pacific and everybody, in turn, has more to lose than gain by an extension of the World War which makes both Japan and the United States active belligerents.

Bidders Notified Of Changes in Plans

Technical changes in the plans of the proposed municipal swimming pool, suggested by the state board of health, have been mailed to contractors who are intending to submit bids on the pool next Monday.

The board of public works will meet at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon to open bids on the pool, a Hunter type circular pool, 150 feet in diameter.
